BELLE STARR, "Queen of Outlaws"

By M. K. WYATT

(Copyright, 1930, by the Home Color Print Co.)

THERE are men living today who can still remember the dashing Belle Starr who galloped over the plains of Texas and Oklahoma as picturesque and fearless a figure as any bold bad man of her day and time. She was called the "Queen of Outlaws."

This unusual woman, whose escapades as an outlaw and keeper of a mountain rendevous for bandit gangs in Oklahoma, had brought her into public notice either to be censored or admired for her bravery and banditry, according to the view taken by the people of that time, was born February 3, 1846, in Carthage, Missouri, the daughter of Judge John and Eliba Shirley. Judge Shirley was a large land holder and possessed many slaves. As a hobby, he raised thoroughbred horses that brought him large sums of money to add to his already lucrative law practice and he gave Belle and her twin brother, Ed, excellent educations. Belle was talented in music, art, writing and a great lover of good books. Her brother became a captain under Quantrill in the Civil War and she became a spy and information gatherer for him.

Belle Defies Federal Army

Belle had just turned sixteen when the first shot was fired at Fort Sumpter. She at once proved her ability to defy the Federal army when she was held by a federal commander at the home of a relative until a detachment of his men got a good start on the way to capture her brother thirty-five miles distant. But Belle beguiled the federal commander into releasing her; soon as released she mounted her fleetest thoroughbred horse and, by taking short familiar cuts across the country, reached her brother in time to warn him and get him safely out of reach of the oncoming federal troops.

All this and her many other deeds of daring during the Civil War proved excellent training for Belle's later day activities that were to make her the picturesque and adventurous "Queen of Outlaws."

At the age of 20 she was married to Jim Reed, who afterward killed his brother's slayer and was forced to leave Missouri, turning up later in Los Angeles, California, from where he wrote Belle to join him.

Belle, always ready to do something new and daring, left her Missouri farm and its thoroughbred horses; left her two children, christened Pearl and Edward, in care of a renter and went to her husband. But not for long did they remain in the Golden West; they were soon back, this time in the Indian Territory, where Reed was given protection by Tom Starr, a famous Cherokee Indian, who was prominent in peace treaty affairs between the United States and the Cherokee government.

Arrives in Dallas

After a brief sojourn in Oklahoma, Belle and her husband came to Dallas, Texas, then a small but lively little city, and engaged in the profitable business of raising and racing thoroughbred horses. She won many times with her horses on neighboring town race tracks.

"Belle mounted her fleetest thoroughbred horse and, by taking short cuts, warned her brother of the approach of federal troops."

Possessed of a knowledge of dress which she used advantageously to bring out the points of her natural beauty, Belle soon had a host of admirers. Great men came to talk to her and buy horses that had won her fame. But conventional life and conventional admiration did not satisfy the restless spirit of Belle Starr and soon she had a coterie of admirers of a different type and character.

With this coterie of admirers, including a few outlaws, Belle continued to maintain her stable of thoroughbred horses and gambling house in Dallas. But things got rather hot there for the young adventuress, who at one time found herself in jail under the charge of horse stealing. Belle used her most artful smiles to cajole the jailer, who finally unlocked the door of her cell and eloped with the vamping charmer. They made their escape into the Indian Territory.

Again the fascinating Belle, now a fugitive from justice, gathered about her a gang of "high rollers." In course of time she married Sam Starr. Sam was a full blood Cherokee, which made Belle a member of the tribe, and cousin of the famous bank robber, Henry Starr, who was killed in 1925 while in the act of robbing an Arkansas bank.

Her Outlaw Retreat

As though tired of the wandering life, Belle and Sam picked a picturesque spot on the South Canadian River in the wilds of eastern Oklahoma, and there built themselves a little cedar hut. The cedar hut was established as an outlaw retreat where the James' and Youngers would come clandestinely and sit around the hearthstone, frequently spending long days of rest there. Belle named the place "Younger Bend" in memory of the Younger brothers.

Belle Starr, the "Queen of Outlaws," finally died with her "boots on." She was shot from ambush on her fortieth birthday by Edgar Watson, an outlaw from Florida, who had drifted into Younger Bend. Watson deemed it the wiser policy to silence Belle, who knew too much about his past lawless career, so he shot her from ambush as she was returning from a trip to Fort Smith, Ark., in company with Pearl, her daughter. Pearl had ridden on ahead and was at the Canadian River watering her horse when she heard the shot that killed her mother. She rode back up the trail and found her mother lying dead in the narrow path.

Belle is buried near the little cedar hut she called "home" and which still is standing in a fairly good state of preservation. Her grave overlooks the South Canadian River, in the rugged Kiamichi mountains of eastern Oklahoma. Long before her death she pointed out this spot to friends as her favorite "burial place."

Humble Beginning of a Great Industry

By CARL WALLACE

(Copyright, 1930, by the Home Color Print Co.)

MORE than 30 years ago, so the story goes, a Smith county farmer, experimentally inclined, gathered a peck of pink tomatoes from his garden, sandwiched them in with a shipment of Elberta peaches and sent them to a Houston produce firm. Returns brought him a check and a surprise; the tomatoes returned him more money than the same quantity of peaches. A Troup tomato buyer, R. W. Cook, told me of this incident, which is said to have been the beginning of the tomato industry in Smith county—at least it was the first reported instance wherein tomatoes had ever been shipped out of the county.

Ernest M. Shoemaker, one of the principal East Texas tomato buyers, recalls that some years before the Smith county incident, the late C. D. Jarratt had interested a small group of Cherokee county farmers, near Craft, in growing tomatoes for the market. The venture proved to be profitable and soon passed out of the somewhat experimental stage into an established industry. Ernest Shoemaker's father early became associated with Mr. Jarrett and the two were the pioneer promoters of the tomato business in Cherokee county, which is, and always has been, the leading tomato producing county of Texas.

Figures Better Than Words

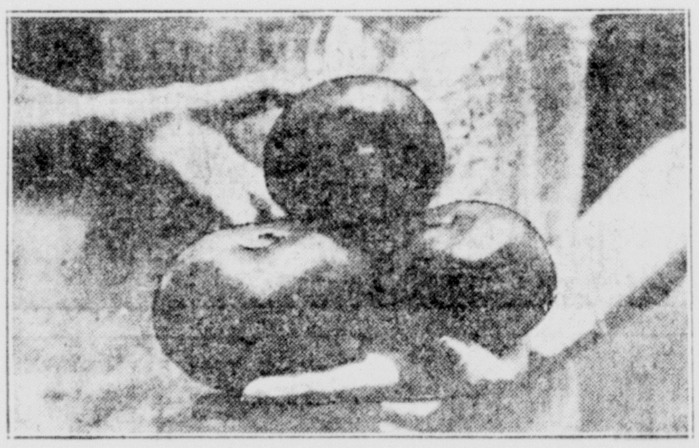

Figures, better than words, tell the story of the East Texas tomato industry. Mr. Shoemaker says this section shipped around 4,500 cars of tomatoes this season. He estimated 660 lugs to the car, a total of 2,970,000 lugs, that grossed $3,267,000, including a labor bill of approximately $44,500.

Not only does the farmer and tomato buyers reap profits from the "green gold from the redlands," but there are also thousands of men, women, boys and girls, who are employed at the packing sheds during the shipping season. Probably no other seasonal industry pays as high wages as the marketing end of the tomato business.

From $5 to $8 a day each is frequently made by tomato packers, many of them boys and girls, during the "rush" days of the season. The pay is at the rate of four cents a lug. Some of the experienced lug makers draw as much as $10 a day. Other employes, proportionately well paid, include bookkeepers, their assistants, weighers, loaders, graders and street buyers, the latter being employed to meet the loads as they reach the packing shed area and to offer bids for the tomatoes.

The unemployment problem in the tomato section became past history during the marketing season. Almost everybody had a job, if he or she wanted it. Youth and age were on an equal footing, insofar as employment was concerned. If rheumatic Uncle Jim couldn't qualify as a nimble-fingered tomato packer or a loader, there were other jobs open that didn't require speed, such as grading tomatoes, janitoring or night-watching, for instance.

Veneer mills, box factories and paper supply houses profit from the tomato industry through sales of materials for lugs, or shipping containers, and paper in which each tomato is wrapped separately before being shipped. Practically every business in town benefits.

East Texas tomato shipments increased from 1,201 carloads in 1920 to approximately 4,500 carloads in 1930.

Some Good and Some Bad Years

Tomatoes are akin to all other crops in at least one respect. Some years are more profitable than others, the determining factors being quality of the product, extent of production, and the price. This year prices were low, compared with former years. Among growers the disappointment was intense. The year before they had received the highest prices on record at some shipping points, and they naturally were hopeful that history would repeat itself this year.

In spite of low prices, this year's tomato crop released over three million dollars in East Texas, silenced the cry of "hard times" and again proved that East Texas does not have to depend on a one-crop system for its livelihood.

Incidentally, numerous East Texas tomato patches will "do double duty" this year. Since the tomato harvest, many fields have been sown in grain to supplement other crops for winter feed for livestock.

The tomato industry is not without its drawbacks, among which are market fluctuations, bugs and "bootleggers." The price uncertainty is ever-present. Growers have to watch the plants and fruit regularly during the growing season and sometimes have to use insecticides generously. Weather is, of course, a powerful influence, for good or bad, in making and marketing the crop.

Eliminating the Bootlegger

The tomato "bootleggers" operated extensively out of the East Texas tomato section last year, but was hardly heard of this year. In 1929, cull tomatoes, rejected by tomato men as unfit for market, were hauled out and dumped into ditches, most of them near highways. Bootleggers got busy. Truckloads were hauled out at night, carried to the larger cities, there ripened, put on the market and represented as regular East Texas graded stock. They were sold in competition with the graded tomato. East Texas tomato men resented the bootlegging activity. This year culls were returned to the farmer at the packing shed and by him hauled back to the farm, there to be used as hog feed or dumped into the field as fertilizer, out of range of the bootlegger.

With few exceptions, East Texas has shown a steady increase in the last ten years in tomato shipments. Figures compiled by Curtis Morris, statistician of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, give the ten-year total movement of tomato cars from this section as follows:

Year	No. Carloads	Year	No. Carloads
1920	1,201	1925	1,983
1921	1,411	1926	1,923
1922	1,823	1927	2,380
1923	880	1928	2,814
1924	1,262	1929	2,924

Total for 1930 was 4,500 cars, according to estimate by Ernest Shoemaker of Jacksonville, one of the principal East Texas buyers.

Bumper yields and high prices in 1929 led to an increase of fully ten per cent in tomato acreage this year,

Sacred Shrine Dedicated Annually to Easter Service

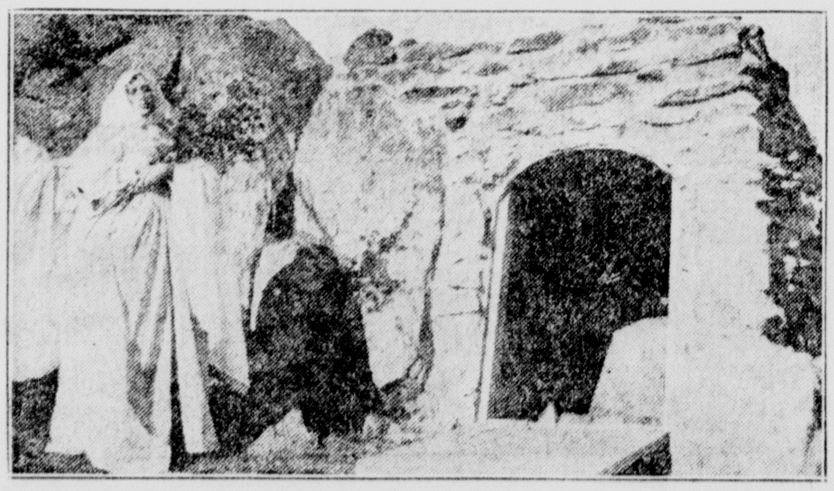

(Copyright, 1930, by the Home Color Print Co.)

THE age-old mountain that towers toward the sky east of the entrance to Medicine Park, near Lawton, Okla., has been made into a sacred shrine where people from near and far come to worship annually on Easter Day. This year marked the fourth service of this kind, when hundreds of Oklahomans and North Texans ascended the mountain side and joined in the singing of "Christ Arose."

The Easter services were held at sunrise and the idea was conceived by the Union Sunday school class of Medicine Park, assisted by the First Congregational church of Lawton, whose pastor, Rev. A. M. Wallock, wrote the beautiful pageant depicting important scenes from Passion week. The story of Gethsemane was strikingly retold. The garden itself was reproduced on a distant mountain while old hymns were sung and worshipers viewed the sacred scenes enacted into a series of tableaux. "Oh, my Father, if this cup may not pass away from Me, except I drink it, Thy will be done," was one of the most vivid representations. This tableau vanished as the shades of night fell and some one mounted an improvised pulpit of rough rocks to narrate the closing hours and suffering of Christ. Nearby a band softly played: "On a Hill Far Away Stood an Old Rugged Cross."

While the band played there appeared in the distance three crosses, the Roman guard deserting the crosses, as one of the guard mounted a pulpit to tell about the Great Physician. In the distance two lepers were seen approaching the tomb of the Lord. Their steps became feeble as they drew near and realized that the Master was dead. Assistance came, however, from an unexpected source. A band of Christians find the lepers and urge the lepers to depart with them, healing their leprosy as they depart.

With the coming of dawn Mary, the mother, stands at the tomb. The tomb opens and the guards rush away in fright as two angels appear and tell Mary that Christ is risen. Then everybody sings and the mountain side rings with the beautiful arai, "Christ Arose."

"With the coming of dawn Mary, the Mother, stands at the tomb"

Hour for Service

The service began at 5 o'clock a.m. and lasted one hour. It was very beautiful and impressive, and an inspiration to the great throng of men, women and children who journeyed such a long way to attend. This year it was estimated that more than 5,000 persons attended the sunrise Easter service.

Four great thoughts were embodied in this tableaux—first, "Thy Will Be Done," followed by the tableau of Gethsemane. Second, "Come Unto Me," followed by the tableau of the three crosses. Third, "The Great Physician," followed by the healing of the lepers; and fourth, "The Abundant Life," followed by the picture of the resurrection.

A number of local people enacted leading parts. Mrs. George Rothrock of Lawton, took the part this year of Mary. The two angels were represented by Misses Marion and Margery Baird, twin sisters. The apostle John was represented by R. Mansell and the two lepers by R. Russell and A. Fisher. In addition to these, more than 100 persons made up the tableaux ensembles.

Much time was spent in preparation for this Easter event. Succeeding years will probably add to and elaborate more upon the various tableaux. This is the first Easter sunrise service of any magnitude to be held in the Southwest which so thoroughly depicted the story of the Resurrection.

Trail Opens Way

A trail had been delved out of the mountain side in order to make its ascent easier. Sacred shrines, depicting scenes from the life of Christ, were placed at intervals along the trail from the foot to the top of the mountain. Visitors were guided along the way by Boy Scouts, who guarded the shrines and directed attention to the inscriptions written thereon.

Fronting the mountain, in bold relief, was an illuminated cross, which was made possible by a mile of insulated wire. The cross was 14 feet high—as high as the one on Golgotha Hill. Flares of electric torches lighted the way up the mountain trail to the rock-sealed tomb of Christ built into solid granite.

Service began with the reading of the Gospel story of the first Easter morn. Then prayer followed, solemn and hushed, in the still morning hour. From somewhere was heard a beautiful voice, singing "Rock of Ages." The first tableau was that of a woman who had brought her leprous brother to be healed; the second tableau, a mother, whose son He had raised; third tableau, a man born blind who had been made to see by the Saviour. Then followed a series of tableaux of little children, each with a green or red electric flare in his or her hand. Finally appeared Mary, mother of Christ, and as a stone crashed down the tomb opened and at its entrance stood a group of victorious angels.

Sacred music was furnished throughout by the band from the Cameron Agricultural school, located at Lawton, Okla. Hundreds of school children marched in procession and placed garlands at the foot of the cross. At sunrise the service came to an end, whereupon the vast crowd that attended and reverently took part in the service, slowly descended the mountain side and returned to their homes.

CURRENT COMMENT

September

THE world was without a September once, and it was a long time after the calendar had been formed. Old Germanicus went on a tare and cleaned up with nearly all of Europe. Finally he turned to Rome, and since the Roman army had turned to golf and tennis, it couldn't function much as a fighting machine, so Germanicus took charge of everything the Caesars had brought home from their triumphal journeys. Taking note of the fact that there was a month on the calendar named for Julius, and also one for Augustus, he said out loud that there must be a month wearing his own proud name. It being much easier to change the name of a month than to create another and divide the year into thirteen parts, he yanked September from the calendar and enthroned Germanicus in its stead. But the man Germanicus and the month Germanicus were both short-lived. Germanicus was soon found dead, and a few months later the Roman Senate had September "setting purty" in the place on the calendar Germanicus had kicked it from.

School Time Again

Now it's time to hunt up books,
Now it's time to leave off play;
And the boys are gay as winged spooks—
(If you don't care what you say.)

The boys are tired of swimming holes—
Tired of the creek's mossy brink;
They're sick of fishing lines and poles
And all such playthings (I don't think.)

Sorghum Time

One of the glories of September is sorghum time, one of the gladdest seasons of the year. Nature puts into sorghum cane her choicest saccharine; sweets of prouder names are not worthy to be compared to the rich, thick syrup that is distilled in the evaporator. Sorghum time takes us old-timers back to other days that are sweet to dwell upon as life's evening comes on. A dozen boys gathered at the place where molasses was made and spent the late summer or early fall-time nights in the open, with no covering save the star-lit canopy of Heaven. The boys took their turns at feeding the cane into the mill and driving the lazy mule that pulled the grinder. While one worked the others ate apples and watermelons—green or ripe. And finally, when the autocrat who presided over the evaporator announced that a "run was done," all gathered with paddles and ate the hot syrup and the foam thereof without the aid of bread. From the great load of fruits and sweetness no boy ever suffered, for indigestion and dyspepsia were then unknown. Of course every boy fell into the "scum hole" some time during the night and ruined his clothes, but more clothes could quickly be made in the looms, and nobody cared. In addition to the feast of new, hot syrup, there came also the feast of sorghum beer, a beverage second in flavor only to buttermilk. The years have been many and the years have been long since the writer gathered 'round the old sorghum mill with the companions of his youth, but even now I seem to see the delightful syrup that foamed and spluttered in the pan, and scent the rich aroma that came from the evaporator.

Perhaps I should have mentioned it last month, but it's not too late; don't forget to plant a good-sized turnip patch, if you have not already given this important matter attention. The turnip crop is one that needs no cultivation, and a person may plant without any visions of plowing and hoeing to disturb his dreams. The turnip is peculiar in that you can eat it all—the portion which grows above the ground and that which grows under the ground. Turnip greens have given man's internal economy more real joy and comfort than any other edible of the animal or vegetable kingdom. The man who eats greens is always peaceful and industrious, is never "fit for treason, stratagems or spoils," and never learns the cynic's cant.

Why Kill the Dove?

Sorry to say, we are to have an open season for dove-shooting this year, as in the years that have gone before. Men must have sport, and will try their marksmanship on doves, just as they have since time was young. But why kill the dove? It is not a destroyer, taking for food only a few insects and worthless seeds. Why kill the dove? For meat it is scarcely worth the shot and powder that kills it, and surely there is no sport in bloodying the breast and closing the eyes of the beautiful, harmless creature. The dove was the new world's first messenger. In its plumage we do not see the gold of rosy youth, but the dull gray of approaching winter which must come to all. In the song of the dove there are not the joyful notes of morning, but there are the comforting love-notes of sorrow which soften our lives and woo us away from sharper griefs. Away back in cruel, thoughtless youth I shot a dove. Ever since, at times, I have seen the bloody, mangled creature fluttering in the weeds while its soft eyes asked who had done it harm, and why. When I have heard the call of a dove for its mate that came not, I have felt that in a way I was author of that song of sadness. Why kill the dove?

Pensions for the aged is rapidly becoming a political issue all over the country, and I expect to see this issue paramounted in a year or two. It is argued that no firm or corporation will employ an old man, and that preachers, salesmen, mechanics and teachers are kicked out at about the age of fifty and the doors of hope of all the avenues leading to a living are closed against them. I am not opposed to pension for old people, but I do believe that the right time to pension a man is when he is about forty. That is the time a man finds it hardest to make ends meet. His boys are burning lots of gasoline, his girls are trying to get married and want expensive dresses, and his wife is doing her best to look young and has to have a great many facials and permanent waves. When a man is old he doesn't want much, and can't enjoy money when it is given him. If the government has any money to give away as pensions, by all means let it bestow the pension money when it will do the most good.

We would have a better understanding of things in general if we would seek the answer from nature. Some men are always asking why women are so hard to understand, so hard to please and so hard to fit. The answer to these questions is that woman was made of very hard material—a rib. And why does man like to go dirty, and why has he such an aversion to bath tubs? The answer is just as easy. Man was made of dirt, consequently he likes dirt and despises everything that assists in removing dirt. And why is man lopsided, and why does he always have a pain in one side when there's work to do around the place? It is because a rib was taken from man's side so early in his existence.

Electricity as a controlled force is only fifty-one years old, for it was in 1879 that Thomas A. Edison gave to the world the incandescent light. Fifty-four years ago Tom was a telegraph operator in Memphis, Tennessee. The people of Memphis looked upon him as a crank, and some went so far as to say he was crazy. He peered into the future and saw the harnessed fluid doing wonders; and he talked of the things to come. The people laughed and pitied the man who had wheels in his head. Today electricity pulls our trains, drives our boats, lights our homes, cooks our food, sweeps our floors, launders our clothes and makes our ice. What it will do later on, no man dares to predict. Possibly, when our roads are perfect, automobiles will be sent to the discard and people will travel fifty or sixty miles an hour on foot-rollers, propelled by storage batteries in their shoes.

If you don't believe man's curiosity bump is well developed, just tell him you saw a fight, with two men of his acquaintance as principals in the set-to. If he does not ask you which one whipped, you can put it down that he has no curiosity.

I read in the papers that Greece has entered into an alliance with Turkey, and that henceforth the two countries will war no more. Surely, this is not the Greece "where burning Sappho loved and sung, where Delos rose and Phoebus sprung." It clutters up history terribly and sends the poetry we learned when a boy to the discard for Greece to enter into negotiations with the barbarous Turk. I never dreamed that Greece would sink so low. Oh, for a Marco Bozarris to shout, "strike till the last armed foe expires, strike for your altars and your fires," and then "pile the ground with Moslem slain." Shame on the Isles of Greece. Truly, "all except their sun is set."

Dame Fashion is not the tyrant she once was. She no longer binds her devotees by iron-clad rules, but adapts drapery to individual tastes and figures. There is no longer a standard length for skirts. They may reach within six inches of the ground, or stop three inches above knee, according to the figure of the wearer. Fashion, like other things, is growing better. Once she was a tyrant that hid many beauties, revealed many lackings, and made countless women mourn. Now she comes with the kindly admonition to cut the garment according to the figure.

This is the day of moving things. If a man has a treeless plain and desires to convert it into a woodland park, large, leafy trees are moved to it without the loss of a leaf. Buildings ten or twelve stories high are moved from one street to another as easily as a child moves a toy blockhouse. Not long ago out in California a large five-story brick building was moved thirty miles. The large structure, weighing thousands of tons, was moved across San Francisco bay without the loss of a brick. The way things animate and inanimate are moved is truly marvelous. And this reminds me that just a little while ago I saw a 90-pound woman move a 275-pound man clear across town and back with one bat of the eye.

Having just passed through an initial and a run-off primary, I wish to say that what this country needs more than anything else is a law under which we would get satisfactory election returns. There is nothing that so tries one's soul and patience as waiting for election returns that just won't come. Of course the better system would cost more money, but who cares for expenses when it comes to getting election news? We need a law providing clerks enough to count a ballot by the time it hits the bottom of a ballot box. The law should further provide that the returns from every box should be wired to every other box within ten minutes after the polls close. We are wasting entirely too much time waiting for election returns, and oh, the agony of the wait! With a voting box out that keeps the result in doubt, a minute is as a thousand years.

Egotism in its relation to man should be the same as that of a night shirt. No man should be without either, but he should keep both in the dark. Either can make a sensible, handsome man look mighty ugly if he parades in it.

The primary elections are over, and the people are again talking sense. And with political horse-play behind us and common sense being talked once more, my hopes of a reduction in the tax rate fades like a calico waist at an August picnic.

A very dear friend of mine went down in ignominious defeat at the late election, and he richly deserved the fate he met at the polls. In truth, I told him he was headed for salt river during the campaign. This friend has been a candidate several times and in all former contests he left the field with victory written upon his brow and with the scalps of his competitors dangling from his belt. In days gone by this friend chewed a world of natural-leaf tobacco. His shirt front always showed the stain of ambier and there was a groove at either side of his chin that was never free from the amber fluid. But just as the recent campaign opened up he quit tobacco cold, and since that time his shirt front has been immaculate and his chin clean. This was too much for an unterrified and unwashed Democracy. A pure and undefiled Democrat will not vote for any man who turns from his best friend and aligns himself with a clean-shirt aristocracy. A man who quits tobacco after enjoying its companionship and being soothed and comforted by it for many years is not worthy of the support of any warm-blooded voter.

I used to believe the theory that supply and demand control prices, even to the extent of arguing that when the raw material is cheap the finished product is also cheap, but I now part company with this theory for all time. Right now the fields are full of rotting or burning straw-stacks, yet a woman's straw hat that's fit to wear to the cow lot can't be had at much less than ten dollars.

Every turn of the wheel of progress injures somebody's business. Dave Jenkins, one of the best friends I ever had, spent most of his life learning how to swap horses. But just about the time he learned to cheat his fellow-man in every trade, automobiles came into use. Dave now has a lot of spavined equines that no man will leave his car long enough to look at.

Some fellow is always rushing into print to say woman is not sufficiently clothed. Isn't woman clothed with the ballot? What more could be asked? The general election ballot is a huge affair and will cover most of the largest woman. Of course it isn't woman's fault if an election for school trustee is held occasionally.

Uncle Tom Hughes, the Whittling Philosopher

By JOE SAPPINGTON

(Copyright, 1930, by the Home Color Print Co.)

UNCLE TOM HUGHES, dubbed by his friends, "The Whittling Philosopher," was one of the greatest characters I ever knew. With plenty of whittling material and chewing tobacco, Uncle Tom was prepared to give free and unlimited advice to friend or foe. Many who asked and then failed to heed his advice usually lived to regret it.

Henry Huggins, a good-natured, unsophisticated blacksmith, decided to make the race for county tax assessor and confided his decision to Uncle Tom.

"Maybeso you air bilious, or yoar liver ain't actin' jest right, Henry. I'd advise that you take a big dose of calomel," admonished Uncle Tom, while he began whittling on a soft piece of pine. "Can you name one sensible man who has solemnly ast you to close yoar shop and run for office? Of course I don't mean that bunch of squirrel-headed snuff dippers that hang around yoar shop. It shore pains me to tell you what a blame fool you air about to make of yourself, and I wouldn't say it if I didn't like you. Henry, if you was to die tonight it wouldn't throw this town into deep mournin' and I doubt that a single store would close while we was cartin' yoar remains to the graveyard. You've got a good trade—one that nature fitted you for mentally and physically, especially physically—and I would advise you to stick to yoar anvil."

"Was given three swift kicks as I hurriedly went out of the doorway"

Ingloriously Defeated

But Uncle Tom's advice was unheeded. After duly announcing his candidacy in the local newspaper, Henry proceeded to ride down a good mule attending picnics and handing out cards to voters.

Out of 3750 Democratic votes cast in the primary, Henry Huggins got them all but 3640.

Mark Davis was the sole support of his widowed mother and two young sisters. Hearing that Mark was about to close a deal with a stranger for a county right to a patent gate, Uncle Tom grabbed a soft pine plank and went to Davis at once to warn him against the patent-gate fellow.

"Mark," he began, "I bought this plank along to whittle on while talkin' to you about that patent gate you air about to buy from that dern scoundrel but, instead of whittling on it, I ought to lay you across my lap and blister you so you couldn't set down for a week. All you know about that blame gate is the cute little model he showed you. I never seen a model that didn't work perfectly and I'll bet I've saw a hundred. No tellin' how many worthless gates I've run afoul of while travelin' over this kentry. You aint made a deal for that gate yit, have you, Mark?" "Not quite, Uncle Tom," said Mark, "but I'm about to."

Uncle Tom closed his knife, took Mark not too gently by the arm and led him to a vacant lot where the grafter was exhibiting to a crowd of yaps his little toy model gate.

"Gentlemen, we have only a few counties left for the Eureka Patent Gate and I expect to close them out today, so if you are lucky you will have to hurry," said a tall, loud-voiced speaker who was wearing a long Prince Albert coat.

"Have you a county listed to Mark Davis," Uncle Tom asked, as he stood facing the speaker.

"Yes, indeed, one of the best counties in Texas," and I want to congratulate the young man over his good luck in procuring it."

"Congratulations air entirely out of order," ventured Uncle Tom, since Mark has decided not to take it."

"Let me talk to the young man," said the oily-tongued gentleman of the Prince Albert coat.

"No use," replied Uncle Tom, "the entire matter is in my hands and if you try to hold him to his trade I'll take that little fake model you air showin' to this crowd of suckers, and break it over yoar head."

The fellow stood there irresolutely and looked at Uncle Tom from the top of his head down to his number twelve shoes—looked at his big muscled arms and into his steel blue eyes that never wavered. Then a strange thing happened. Uncle Tom, from force of habit, reached into his pocket and brought forth a spring-back knife with a six-inch blade and opened it. Afraid that he was about to be attacked by Uncle Tom, the patent gate artist dived through the crowd and made a bee-line to his hotel.

Before boarding his train that night he arranged with the hotel proprietor to ship his model gate to another town in the State.

Uncle Tom's Advice Again Disregarded

I failed to take Uncle Tom's advice once to my very great regret and embarrassment. It was during a hotly contested political campaign in which the Democrats and Populists struggled for mastery. In my zeal to help my bleeding party, I decided to take the stump for some of its hard-pressed candidates, and hastened to confide the glad news to Uncle Tom.

"Boys, bring me a good-sized pine plank to whittle on while I talk to this new-found orator," Uncle Tom said in a chuckling voice.

"Who is it, Joe, that's clamorin' for you to make political speeches? I knode you before you was through shedin' your milk teeth and I didn't know before you was a public speaker. Air you shore you haint got yoarself mixed up with some other feller, Joe? I think I heerd yoar wife say while she was over to our house last week that you had got a raise in your salary and was now gittin' $9.75 a week. Joe, I hate to advise a great man, like you, but I would shore hold on to that job and leave off the speakin' if it interfered with the job. If you air an orator, Joe, then I'm a Greek poet."

Three days after that conversation I dodged down an alley to keep from meeting Uncle Tom. The night before I had tackeled an old bow-legged Populist in a political debate and the crowd of Pops had yelled me down before I had spoken five minutes; besides, I was given three swift kicks as I went hurriedly out of the doorway.

many localities growing tomatoes commercially for the first time. Smith and Cherokee counties, the "pioneers of tomatodom," lead in production. Cherokee ranks first, with Smith county second. From 1920 to 1928 Cherokee's yield ranged, in round numbers, from 700 to 1,300 cars a year, compared with from 400 to 1,000 cars in Smith county, as based on data from the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Comparative government figures since 1928 are unavailable. Production in the two premier tomato producing counties this year probably will show an increase of 12 per cent over 1929. This gain is due to increased acreage and not to larger per-acre production; rather, the yield to the acre was smaller than in recent past years, due to weather damage in the early spring.

Nearly the entire tomato crop in the last few years has been shipped as "green wraps;" that is, green mature tomatoes wrapped in porous paper. They are usually ripened artificially at consuming points before going on the retail market.

New Methods of Packing

Until a few years ago, most of the crop was shipped while pink. Mr. Shoemaker says "the pink carried a lot of grief for us," explaining that the pinks were very perishable, subjecting shippers to heavy losses during transit. The present system consists of packing the green wrapped tomatoes in box-like containers, known as lugs, each lug weighing, when packed, about 30 pounds. Except on long transit, no ice is used in the car, whereas almost constant refrigeration was required for the pinks. The chief advantage under the present system is that green wraps ripen slowly and for that reason will safely stand longer shipment; and the new packaging will allow more tomatoes to the car.

In 1929 Missouri, with 625 cars, crowded out Illinois as the leading consumer of East Texas tomatoes, a place Illinois had held since 1925. In the last few years St. Louis has been the distributing point for most of the East Texas shipments. Besides Missouri and Illinois, principal consumers of the East Texas product, are Pennsylvania, Texas, Oklahoma, New York, Ohio, Colorado, Canada, Kansas, Michigan and Kentucky.

Packing shed vicinities take on a carnival aspect during the shipping season. They are gathering places of scores of people, employes, onlookers, job seekers, hamburger, hot dog and cold drink vendors, and transient shows that have a habit of pitching their tents and blaring their bands as near as possible to tomato packing sheds, where the crowds congregate. Truck and passenger autos line the streets in every direction about the sheds. In fact, during the four or five weeks of marketing rush, an East Texas tomato town may boast of one problem in common with New York City: "Where Can I Find a Place to Park?"

TEXAS BRIEF NEWS

FROM OVER THE STATE

UNIVERSITY ROYALTY FUND INCREASES

The University of Texas permanent royalty fund continues to increase rapidly. Up to July 15 this fund had reached the sum of $12,710,464.07. This total included the $1,134,180.20 received by the fund for the leasing of 84 tracts of oil and gas land in Ward, Andrews and Winkler counties.

JAIL EMPTY—NEVER A MURDER TRIAL IN THE COUNTY

Sterling county, Texas, has a jail, but apparently has no need of it. The jail is empty and the doors are open.

In this court house a murder trial has never been held. There has been but one murder committed in the county since it was organized, and that was by a non-resident, who was tried in another county. No resident of the county has ever been sent to the penitentiary.

TEXAS SECOND IN RICE PRODUCTION

The rice industry in Texas began about 40 years ago. The production in 1889 was only 3,900 bushels. During the following 20 years the industry made rapid progress in this State and in 1909 the largest crop in its history, 8,991,145 bushels, was produced. Since that time production has varied annually; estimate for 1930 is 7,380,000 bushels. Texas is the second largest producer of rice in the United States.

OVER FOUR BILLIONS IN TEXAS TAX VALUATIONS

The assessed valuation of taxable property in Texas, upon which the tax rate is based, is $4,280,498,578, according to the report of the State Comptroller. This is an increase of $136,000,000 over the estimate figure of last year.

The five leading counties reported the following valuations: Harris, $340,000,000; Dallas, $310,000,000; Bexar, $190,000,000; Tarrant, $176,000,000; El Paso, $90,000,000.

TO BUILD PIER AT POINT ISABEL

Tulsa, Okla., financiers are contemplating building pleasure piers at Point Isabel. According to information received at the Point, the piers will cost at least $100,000 and will rival in magnitude and attractiveness the country's most noted summer and winter resorts. The proposed site of the piers is the locality of the old lighthouse on the mainland. Promoters hope to complete the projects simultaneously with the completion of the paved roads to the Point.

RATTLESNAKE CLUB FORMED

The citizens of precinct 3 of Lampasas county, aided by the Lometa Chamber of Commerce and the business men of Lometa have formed a mutual and cooperative club, having as its purpose the extermination of the deadly and venomous rattlesnake.

The club will pay a bounty of 25 cents for the head of each rattlesnake killed within the boundary of the precinct. Money is raised for the paying of bounties by membership fees and assessments.

LAMESA MILK PLANT IN OPERATION

Lamesa's $200,000 powdered milk factory is now in operation. Products manufactured by this plant include powdered milk and sweet cream butter. Later on other dairy products will be turned out by the factory. The products will be distributed locally as far as possible and the surplus sent to foreign markets.

Counties producing milk to be consumed by the factory are Dawson, Lynn, Howard, Borden, Gaines, Terry, Andrews, Martin and Lubbock.

VALLEY CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS TOTAL $46,846,000

Recent survey of the lower Rio Grande Valley reveals that construction work now under way or planned totals $46,846,000. Work planned, as reported in the survey, includes only that for which funds are now available and architect's or engineer's plans drawn.

The value of construction work by classifications is as follows: Irrigation, $28,115,000; navigation, $6,652,000; highways, $4,825,000; general construction, $7,253,000. Under general construction is included commercial and industrial development, residential building, schools, churches and other civic projects.

RAISING GARLIC IN TEXAS

Texas bids fair to become an important grower of garlic in the near future. Already a start has been made, and the experiment has been sufficiently satisfactory to warrant a larger production. Fayette county farmers have tried garlic and are making a success of the industry. Many thousand pounds have been shipped from Flatonia this year.

There is a large importation of garlic into this country, the imports in 1928 amounting to 5,930,296 pounds. Upon the supposition that garlic cannot be grown in this country, the tariff bill recently passed by Congress reduced the tariff on that commodity from two cents to one and a half cents per pound.

BROWNWOOD GIVEN PECAN STATION

Federal aid for the pecan industry in the Brownwood section of the State has arrived in the person of Dr. H. P. Traub, who, with an appropriation of $27,000, is starting a pecan experiment station at Brownwood. A station of the same character and magnitude is being started at Austin.

The work will include all phases of the pecan industry, and will be a comprehensive pecan research project of all pecan varieties, Dr. Traub says. It will include standard breeding, propagation, factors in fruit setting, influence of various types of soil cultivation, cover cropping, fertilization, application of methods, irrigation, proper polenation, pruning, thinning, etc.

NEW FEDERAL BUILDING FOR TEXARKANA

New grounds necessary for the enlargement of the site at Texarkana have been obtained and the plans for the new federal building on Texas-Arkansas line are expected to be completed right away. The necessary steps will then be taken for the construction of the new building. For this work Congress recently made an appropriation of $790,000. The new structure will be used as a joint postoffice for Arkansas and Texas and will also house the federal and district court for the two States.

The new building will be on a full block of ground in the heart of the city, in an elevated spot. The contract for the building is expected to be let early next year.

INSURANCE LOSS RATIO DECREASES

While losses paid on all classes of fire insurance risks in Texas during 1929 exceeded those of 1928 by several hundred thousand dollars, the ratio of loss to the premiums showed a small decrease, it is shown by the statement of annual underwriting expense for the last year. The loss ratio of 1928 was .513 per cent of premiums which totaled $29,916,855, with losses of $15,319,467, while in 1929 the loss ratio was 59 per cent with premium totaling $30,660,542, and paid losses totaling $15,664,858.

Saw mills, and lumber at mill plants, jails, penitentiaries and other asylums and candy factories cost the insurance carriers their greatest percentage of loss on premiums paid during the year.

COURTS MAY FIX TREASURER'S PAY

A recent ruling of the Supreme Court of Texas in the case of a former county treasurer definitely settles the right and authority of the commissioners' court of any county to fix the salary of the county treasurer.

Suit had been brought by a former county treasurer to collect a larger sum for official services rendered as treasurer than had been fixed by the commissioners' court. The case was first tried in the District Court, then appealed to the Court of Civil Appeals at Texarkana, and finally to the Supreme Court.

TEXAS BRIEF NOTES

Texas automobile registration fees in 1929 totaled $20,418,696. The automobile registration fees of Texas were exceeded by only three other States.

Texas, with 174 cottonseed oil mills, leads all the other States of the Union in this industry, Georgia being second. Texas has nearly one-third of the 534 such plants in the United States.

Texas maintains five fish hatcheries, with two more now provided for. In Texas the United States maintains one hatchery, and one private hatchery is located at Medina Lake.

Texas has thirteen legal hodidays. Two of them—Texas Independence (March 2) and San Jacinto (April 21) are peculiar to the State. The others are national holidays.

Texas produces one-third of the cotton seed products in the United States and contributes 45 per cent of exports in those commodities.

Texas is one of the ten States in the Union leading in the production of salt. Nearly all the production is at Grand Saline and Palestine.

Texas leads the United States in the number and value of "teacherages" maintained for the use of public school instructors. It has 1,330 such homes, valued at $1,784,007. Thirty-seven of these teacherages are for colored people.

Texas shipped 7,811 carloads of cabbage during the year 1929. Zavalla led all the other counties in the shipment of cabbage, being credited with 3,412 carloads. During the same year Texas shipped 5,559 carloads of spinach. Hidalgo led all the other counties in spinach shipments, being credited with 4,047 carloads.

The wide variety of Texas' climatic conditions is indicated by a range in 1929 of 127 degrees. Sixteen degrees below in Hartley county and 111 above in Clay county were the minimum and maximum recorded by the weather bureau.

The University of Texas has 2,000,000 acres of land in its endowment, a million acres being set aside by the Constitutional Convention of 1875 and a second million by legislative enactment in 1883.

Texas has more prisoners confined for violation of the prohibition law than any other State in the Union, and more than 32 other States combined on that account, according to figures given out by Congressman Bachman, of West Virginia.

NEARLY HALF OF STATE'S CASH GOES TO WARDS

Nearly half of the State's cash goes for eleemosynary work, according to a report of the State Comptroller—to be exact, 49 per cent. And of the nearly half of the State dollar devoted to the care of the unfortunate, a little less than two-thirds is spent in the care of the mentally afflicted, the insane, the epileptics and the feeble-minded.

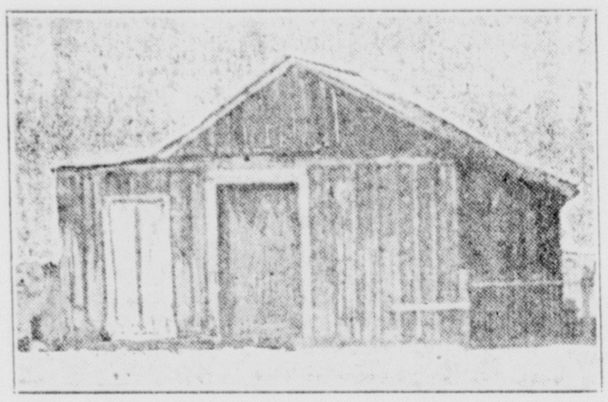

For the current biennium, which ended August 31, the appropriations on these accounts were a little more than $6,000,000. For the succeeding biennium the total will be even greater. Enlargement must be made in several of the institutions, and as the institutions are enlarged the cost of operation increases. The members of the Board of Control have made it known that they will recommend to the next session of the Legislature the establishment of a psychopatic hospital at Dallas. If such an institution is established it will require an appropriation of something like $500,000. A small institution of this character has already been authorized by the Legislature at Galveston, and an appropriation of $150,000 made for the erection of same. It is expected to be in operation early next year and will accommodate forty patients.

The psychopatic hospitals will be additions to the steadily expanding accommodations which the State provides for the care of the mentally ill. The psychopatic hospital is a new institutional instrument for the treatment of those suffering from mental and nervous disorders. Its design is to bring such under treatment earlier than has been possible in the present institutions, and it is believed restoration to normal mentality will be easier and more speedy. It is also believed that people suffering from mental disorders can be induced to enter such institutions who would not think of submitting to confinement in a hospital for the insane. Several States have such institutions already and report splendid results. The one at Denver, Colorado, has sent back to their homes fully recovered 70 per cent of those who sought treatment there.

Texas Headquarters of Gen. Zachary Taylor's Army in 1845

On May 11, 1846, the United States declared war against Mexico. During the autumn months of 1845 General Zachary Taylor's army of occupation arrived in Corpus Christi and camped on a site which is now the center of the city's business section.

The picture herewith is the little wooden building occupied by General Taylor in Corpus Christi as his headquarters during the first year of the war. The picture was taken years later, when Corpus Christi had become a thriving fishing and agricultural village. Today the five-story Nueces Hotel is located on the site of the wooden building.

General Taylor's soldiers, after encamping, were put to work building long embankments of sand as a windbreak and protection from cold northers. These embankments may be plainly traced today, long mounds of earth, lying east and west of the city.

It was on the beach at Corpus Christi that the Mississippi Yagers landed, so-called because they were armed with the then new Yager rifle. This regiment was commanded by Col. Jefferson Davis, soon to win laurels in Mexico, and later to be the only President of the Southern Confederacy.

Ulyses S. Grant was one of the young officers in command of the U. S. army that marched through Texas and then on into Mexico.

Many graves of soldiers who lost their lives in the war with Mexico are to be found within the city limits of Corpus Christi, some of them unmarked. A busy city has grown up on all sides of the old cemeteries.

PREDATORY ANIMALS RAPIDLY DISAPPEARING

Live stock saved from destruction during the last year by the predatory eradication work of the Bureau of Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, co-operating with the Live Stock Sanitary Commission of Texas and the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, was worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to owners of live stock. The director of the research work of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission reports that only one lobo wolf was captured during the fiscal year ending June 30, and this shows that this species of wolf is rapidly becoming extinct.

Coyotes were caught in the largest number, the report says, with 4,388 trapped and 846 poisoned; 1,096 red wolves were trapped. Only three bears were captured, six mountain lions and 856 bobcats. Most of the animals were caught in sparsely-settled West Texas counties. The only lobo wolf was captured in Crockett county, near the Mexican border.

HELIUM RECORD SET BY TEXAS

The largest quantity of helium ever produced by any plant in a month's operation was produced at the government plant at Soncy, near Amarillo, during the month of May, it has been announced by the United States Bureau of Mines.

The May record was 1,204,900 cubic feet of helium at a net cost of $7.76 per 1000, which is the lowest cost ever attained. The month also saw completion, testing and preliminary operation of the second unit of the plant.

With the second unit completed, the plant has a capacity of 24,000,000 cubic feet of helium per year, which is ample to meet the needs of the army and navy when the navy's two new 6,500,000 cubic foot ships are completed.

The entire development of the production of helium, found almost exclusively in Texas natural gas, has occurred since 1917. Prior to that time helium had been obtained only as a scientific curiosity in laboratories. Probably the total quantity isolated in the whole world did not exceed 100 cubic feet, and the cost of producing it was from $1,700 to $2,000 per cubic foot. Now the Bureau of Mines is prepared to produce it at the rate of 2,000,000 cubic feet per month at operating costs well below one cent per foot.

MOVE FOR TEXAS SCENIC HIGHWAY

A move to promote the route from the Texas Panhandle to the Rio Grande as one of the Southwest's outstanding highways was recently launched by representatives of many towns along the proposed route. The International Panhandle-Mexico Highway Association has been formed, with A. S. Mauzey, of Sweetwater, as president. The purpose adopted by the association is "to promote designation, promotion, building and advertising of the Trans-Texas route from Panhandle to the Rio Grande."

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO IN TEXAS

(September, 1895.)

The greatest question agitating the minds of the people was whether a prize fight should be held within the borders of Texas, and it caused as much excitement, perhaps, as the warmest political campaign known to the State.

James J. Corbett, then the champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, and Bob Fitzsimons, who later became the champion, had announced a championship pugilistic contest to be held in Texas. The affair was promoted by Dan Stuart, of Dallas, who was very prominent in the sporting world at that time. There was a law against prize-fighting on the Texas statutes, but the promoters of the fight and their attorneys said it was invalid. Governor Charles A. Culberson said the fight should not take place in the State and gave the sheriff and county attorney instructions to enforce the law. The promoters got before the courts with a test case, and the law was held invalid. But the State had not yet been defeated. Governor Culberson issued a call for the Legislature to convene in special session at once. A new law was passed, and the fight went elsewhere.

MAY BUILD BRIDGES COSTING $4,000,000

A committee of business men of Beaumont, which have been studying the problem of bridges on the Neches River near Beaumont, have recommended the construction of one or two bascule bridges across that stream. The total cost of the project would be in the neighborhood of $4,000,000, and it is recommended that the city supply $900,000, the remainder of the cost to be borne by the railroads.

DINOSAUR BONE FOUND IN BANK OF CONCHO RIVER

The thigh bone from the hind leg of a dinosaur, a member of the saurian family of reptilian animals that slithered across what is now West Texas thousands of years ago, was recently found under six feet of earth protruding from the bank of the middle Concho River in central Irion county.

The find was made by Dr. N. H. Darton, for many years with the United States Geological Survey, who is completing the compilation of data for a geological map of Texas. The bone, which is 40 inches long, has been sent to the National Museum at Washington for definite classification.

Dr. Darton estimates that the dinosaur was probably 25 to 30 feet long. The dinosaur of the carnivorous species had a smooth hide, resembled something of a cross between a lizard and an alligator and a kangaroo, with a lizard-like body, head and tail, short fore legs and large powerful hind legs.

SIX HUNDRED THOUSAND ACRES SCHOOL LAND ON MARKET

Approximately 600,000 acres of free public school land has been advertised for sale September 1, because of failure of the title holders to same to pay the interest due November, 1928, so the commissioner of the General Land Office has announced. The land is located in 146 counties.

Although 600,000 acres have been advertised for sale, only approximately 300,000 acres actually will be sold, the land officials believe. They are of the opinion that many of the numerous owners will pay the interest before the day of sale and thus prevent forfeiture and sale.

The land will be resold with the State retaining the mineral rights, under a recent decision of the Supreme Court.

This will be the first sale of public free school land since 1925.

DAIRY FACTS

Manager, Mistletoe Creameries, Inc.

The Fall Outlook for Butterfat Prices

During the past month or six weeks butterfat prices have advanced between five and six cents per pound. This price is now within three or four cents of prices paid last year. This reaction in the butterfat market, which in turn has been reflected in the butter market, Standards in Chicago the measuring stick for butter prices have advanced in proportion, is an indication of a strengthening condition of the dairy situation.

Storage holdings for the first of August showed considerable improvement over July storage holdings. On the first of July there was a surplus as compared with a year ago of approximately 14,000,000 pounds of butter. On August 1 this surplus as compared with last year had been cleaned up, and storage holdings were 6,000,000 short of a year ago. However, storage holdings as of August 1 are still in excess by 14,000,000 pounds of the five-year average of holdings, which indicates that there is ample cold storage holdings for the present. It looks as though, however, owing to drouthy conditions over the producing territory, this surplus of 14,000,000 pounds will be wiped out by September 1, and that we will enter September of this year on an average basis with other years.

The price at present seems to be fairly well stabilized, as there is no desire on the part of manufacturers and dealers to secure a price on butter that will curtail consumer demand. Indications therefore are that the price on butterfat will for the next few months remain between 30 and 35 cents, and at this price should stimulate considerable production, as on that basis the price received for butterfat compares more favorably with prices being paid for other farm commodities.

(Any subscriber of this newspaper who has a question to ask about his dairy cattle should write Mr. J. W. Ridgway and he will be glad to answer it free of cost. Address Box 1012, Fort Worth, Texas.)

TEXAS-CHICAGO GAS PIPE LINE

Work is now in progress on the 24-inch pipe line from Texas to Chicago. This line, it is said, will serve more than 50 cities.

The pipe line will start from Moore county, Texas, run north through the Oklahoma Panhandle to a point near Meade, Kansas, then in a northeasterly direction across the State through Washington county to Plattsmouth, Neb., where it will cross the Missouri River. It will cross Iowa in an east-northeasterly direction, to span the Mississippi near Muscatine, and go on east through Illinois, passing a short distance south of Chicago, where a connection with the Insull systems will be made.

GOLF COURSE UNDER HISTORIC TREE

The branches of the great Davy Crockett tree, the tree under which Davy Crockett camped while in Crockett on his way to the Alamo, now spreads over a miniature golf course. It is a very large and beautiful tree, and is a scene of much interest to all visitors to Crockett.

Rufe Johnson's pet hound disappeared. Rufe put the following ad in the paper:

"Lost or run away—one liver-colored bird dog called Jim. Will show signs of hydrofobby in about three days."

The dog came home the following day.

Wrong Tackle

The station master rushed out of his room, after hearing a crash on the platform. He discerned a dishelved young man sprawled out perfectly flat among a confusion of overturned milk cans and the scattered contents of his traveling bags.

"Was he trying to catch the train?" the station master asked of a small boy who stood by, admiring the scene.

"He did catch it," said the boy, "but it got away again."

Outwitting the Devil

A colored preacher called on a white minister. He found the white man busy writing.

"What you-all doin'?" he asked.

"I'm preparing notes for my sermon for next Sunday."

The colored preacher shook his head. "I certainly would never do dat, sir," he said. Hope That Springs Eternal

A tourist, traveling through western Kansas, saw a man sitting by the ruins of a house that had been blown away, and stopped to ask:

"Was this your house, my friend?"

"Yep."

"Any of your family blown away with the house?"

"Yep, wife and four kids."

"Great Scott, man, why aren't you hunting for them?"

"Well, stranger, I've been in this country quite a spell. The wind's due to change this afternoon. So I figure I might as well wait here till it brings 'em back."

Wife's Work

A North Carolina farmer, with brown furrows, hauled up his mules in front of the village doctor's office, tied them to the hitching post and knocked on the door. Without a "howdy-do" he began:

"Say, Doc, I wish you'd come out to the farm sometime today to see the wife."

"Is she sick?" asked the pill-shooter.

"Not 'zackly."

"What seems to be the trouble?"

"Well, Doc, she got up this mornin' at the usual time, 'bout four o'clock, pailed the cows, cooked up the breakfast for the hands, straightened up the house, churned the butter, slopped the shoats, cut the wood ter git dinner, and 'long 'bout ten o'clock she complained of feelin' a leetle tired like, Doc. An Early Day Joke

During the days before automobiles two ladies stopped at a livery stable and asked for a gentle horse to drive.

The liveryman brought out one saying: "This horse is perfectly gentle so long as you don't let the rein get under his tail."

Within a few hours they returned.

"How did you get along," asked the liveryman.

"Oh, we got along just fine. Had a couple of showers while we were out, but we took turns holding the parasol over the horse's tail."

Mary: "Ah! Sure, ma'am, you needn't worry. I won't tell a soul, and it looks as good as new, anyway."

Over His Head

"So your name is George Washington," mused the old lady.

"Yassum," replied the small negro boy.

"I'll bet you try hard to be like him, don't you?"

"Lak who?"

"Why, like George Washington, of course."

"Ah cain't help bein' lak Jawge Washington, 'cause dat's who Ah is."

TEXAS REMAINS FIFTH IN POPULATION

Texas' ten-year population increase amounted to 24.62 per cent, it is revealed by the announcement of the State totals in the 1930 census, showing the number of Texans to be 5,810,685. This is a splendid showing, although it is of course somewhat below the expectations of some and the claims of many. Nations, States and cities usually claim more people than they have, and census figures are always disappointing.

The State's rate of growth was exceeded only by that of California, which has had the advantage of a population boom due to special conditions. California, however, remained below Texas in the population ranking, Texas retaining its fifth place, topped only by New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio.

Through this gain in population, it is conceded that Texas will be allowed two more Congressmen.

$4,370,880 ASKED FOR PRISON SYSTEM

The general manager of the Texas Prison System has submitted his budget to the Board of Control, in which he asked that body to recommend to the Legislature an appropriation of $4,370,880 for the next biennium. This is an increase of $72,024.81 over the appropriation for the last two years.

For salaries $593,190 is sought for the first year and $615.90 for the second year. The support and maintenance appropriation asked was $3,-162,000. The salary of the general manager was set at $8,000, the same as at present.

COUNTY JAIL NEVER HAD A PRISONER

Borden county enjoys the distinction of being the only county in the State whose jail never held as prisoner a citizen of the county. In the 39 years that the county has been organized, no citizen of the county has ever been confined in the county jail. Other distinctions enjoyed by this county are that it has no doctor or preacher.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS NOW SERVE FOUR YEARS

At the last session of the Legislature a law was enacted changing the length of the terms of the county school superintendents of the State. The law enacted makes the length of the term of superintendents four years instead of two, the law to become effective January 31, 1931. The act is State-wide in its application, every county in the State being affected by its provisions.

The superintendent of schools is the only county officer having a four-year term. Other officials serving four years are the judges in judicial districts. The State Senators, who are elected from senatorial districts, also serve four-year terms.

TAX RATE SLIGHTLY INCREASED

Although the Legislature spent much time on the enactment of bills levying special taxes, with the hope of reducing taxes on property, especially in behalf of the schools, instead of a reduction of the State tax rate, we are to have a slight increase.

The advalorem tax for support of the public schools was increased from 31 cents to 35 cents. However, the property tax rate for general revenue was reduced from 30 cents to 27 cents, giving an increase of 1 cent in the advalorem tax rate.

Property valuations had increased about $200,000,000, but offsetting this it was necessary to make a reduction from those counties entitled to tax remissions.

EGGS WANTED! Wanted at a big price. That will be the story in your town very soon, for October, November, December are coming. Fresh eggs will be scarce. Fresh eggs will be high. Fresh eggs will be making good money for those who have learned the knack of filling up the egg basket... while cold is chilling down the thermometer.

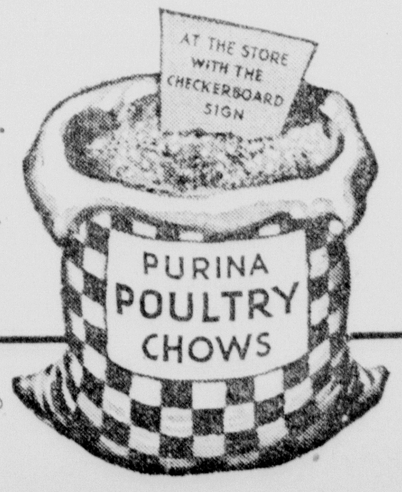

46c per dozen...that's the average October, November, December farm price for eggs from 1918 to 1929, say figures from the United States Department of Agriculture. 19c per dozen...that's the average October, November, December feed cost in 1929 for America's best known laying feed... Purina Laying Chows...say figures from a national survey of more than 1,000,000 hens. Paying out 19c per dozen eggs for Purina Laying Chows. Taking in 46c per dozen eggs on market day. What a bargain!

These figures are more than promises. They are facts. Facts taken from thousands of every-day poultry yards where the job has actually been done. So treat yourself to this bargain...put Purina Laying Chows before your birds...now! A few short weeks will tell you the story. The many ingredients in Purina Laying Chows...each one there because the Purina Experimental Farm has proved it must be there ...will fill your egg basket daily with October, November, December eggs...fill it at a cost that's dirt cheap.

Buying eggs from your layers at 19c per dozen...selling these eggs at market price...putting the difference in your pocket...that's the story in a nutshell. That's the story which becomes your bargain when Purina Laying Chows become your feed! Ralston Purina Co. of Texas, Inc., 1522 E. First St., Fort Worth, Texas.

42 EGGS FOR 37c

There are 42 more eggs in 100 pounds of Purina Laying Chows than in the average bag of more than 125 other feeds. The extra cost of Purina Laying Chows is 37c. 42 eggs for 37c. These are figures from the 1929 national survey of 3,007,718 hens...a survey made by 870 men in all 48 states.

Cotton Seed Meal and Eggs

Careful experiments conducted by our own Texas Experiment Station, unquestionably prove, that cotton seed meal is not a desirable ingredient in an egg mash. Too bad, because in Texas we have large quantities of cotton seed meal and very often it is cheap. Some time ago we had an opportunity of examining eggs that were produced from a ration containing cotton seed meal, and kept in cold storage for several months. The eggs came out in bad shape, a high percentage unfit for human consumption. The eggs smelled bad, they tested bad, they were bad or poor eggs in every respect. Now then that is a discouraging picture, but it is true. We must discontinue recommending the use of cotton seed meal for laying hens, because we cannot afford to do anything that will lower the quality of eggs. Every move we make should be made to improve the quality of market eggs. From what information we have been able to gather, it is best not to feed any cotton seed meal to laying hens. We never know when eggs will go into cold storage, and we do know that cotton seed fed hens will not produce quality eggs that will stand up after having been in cold storage. We have seen large number of eggs in case lots come out of storage that had to be "dumped" because they were from cotton seed meal fed hens. Cut out the cotton seed meal in your egg mash and substitute a good grade of meat scraps and dried buttermilk.

Watch for Intestinal Worms

Time and again we have cautioned people to worm their growing pullets, but only too often, no thought is given to these words of caution. If your pullets and breeding cockerels you are saving back have not been wormed you better get busy right away. Worm them when eight to ten weeks old and worm them a second time when twelve to fourteen weeks old. In flocks heavily infested it may be necessary to worm them a third time three or four weeks later. Unless your pullets have been dewormed the chances are very good they are full of worms. Use any of the many worm remedies, such as capsules, pills or individual dosage. We believe it takes individual treatment to get the worms. Flock treatment may be satisfactory to hold the worm infestation in check, but it takes individual treatment to get rid of them.

A Good Tonic

Readers please notice that this is the first time we have come out in favor of a tonic. The serious worm infestation of cocks and resulting lowered vitality, has forced us to recommend the more general use of good tonics. A good tonic will help develop your pullets. Try one.

TEXAS FARM NEWS

On June 15 of this year the general level of farm prices were at the lowest level since October, 1922.

The East Texas Fur Rabbit Breeders' Association has been formed with about 50 East Texas breeders as members. Raising of fur rabbits is fast becoming a side-line with many farmers and business men of the East Texas section.

There are in Texas 29,981 4-H club boys and girls. Of this number 16,981 are boys and 13,385 are girls. The work of the boys this year is almost equally divided among live stock, poultry and crop demonstrations.

A litter of eleven cross-bred Berkshire-Duroc pigs owned by Edwin Pieper, of the Meyersville 4-H Club, Dewitt county, have set a high mark by producing 366 pounds of gain in 32 days at a feed cost of only $4 per hundred pounds of gain. The ration fed to these pigs consisted of corn, free choice, a home-mixed protein supplement and Sudan grass pasture.

A farmer in the Rio Grande Valley announces the invention of a cotton-picking sack. The sack is interchangeable and reversible, giving it four wearing surfaces instead of one. The invention consists of an apron, which may be laced to either end or side of the sack. When the wearing surface brought in contact with the earth is nearly worn through, the sack can be turned over and laced on the other side. When the second surface is nearly worn through the apron can be switched to the opposite end of the sack, where the other two wearing surfaces can be utilized.

Some one has given us the figures of the progress in the harvesting of wheat the last hundred years. When wheat was harvested with a sickle and threshed with a flail, from 35 to 50 hours of labor were required for harvesting and threshing an acre with a yield of 15 bushels. The introduction of the cradle saved about ten hours per acre. At present farmers in the Great Plains use from four to five hours in harvesting an acre of wheat with a binder and threshing from the shock with a stationary thresher; from three to four hours when the crop is harvested with a header and threshed with a stationary thresher, and an average of three-fourths of an hour when the combined harvester-thresher is used.

Efforts are being made to eradicate the sweet potato weevil in a number of East Texas counties and to obtain designation of another pest-free zone under the provisions of the Pest Control Bill passed at the recent session of the Legislature. The work is being carried on under the supervision of the chief of the entomological division of the State Department of Agriculture, with the co-operation of the Extension Service of A. & M. College, the East Texas Chamber of Commerce and local chambers of commerce. Most of the counties in the northern part of the territory have been certified free of the weevil and placed in Pest Free Zone No. 3. A number of other counties are doing clean-up work. Shipments of potatoes or slips may be made from the pest-free zones without permit, but inspection and permit are required under the law for shipments outside the pest-free territory.

The United States Department of Agriculture gives out the information that barrows make better gains than sows when all get the same kind of feed and attention. In eight years of comparative feeding tests, 5,653 hogs were studied. Of this number 3,018 were barrows and 2,635 were sows. The barrows outgained the sows by 5.43 per cent. The study was made on hogs in various experiments conducted in practically all parts of the country, under a wide range of climatic conditions. It included pure-breds of all the popular breeds used in this country, both bacon and lard type, as well as a number of cross-breds.

The citrus trees of the Lower Rio Grande Valley are valued at $60,000,000 by the federal census of this year. The number of citrus trees in the Valley have increased about 15 per cent during the last year, it is estimated. The increase is not as great as in previous years, due in all probability to the freeze of last winter and the resultant decrease in planting. It was estimated unofficially that the total number of trees in the valley is about 5,886,877, of various ages. Citrus experts place about $10 a tree as an average value, including grape fruit, orange, lemon and other citrus growths. The trees now planted annually increase in value as they become more mature, and a large number of new trees are being put out rapidly. The exact total of citrus trees in the Rio Grande Valley, counting Cameron, Hidalgo and Willacy counties, was 5,118,981 in 1929. This was increase of nearly 25 per cent over the previous year. The yield this year is expected to be above normal.

Mrs. S. W. Rigley, of Bexar county, reports a profit of $2.13 per hen for five months ending April 1 of this year. This was in a farm-flock contest sponsored by the county agent. Herbert Rittman, who was in the 4-H boys and girls club contest, made a slightly better showing. He led with a profit of $2.15 per hen. A profit of $2 per year per hen is considered very fair in the poultry business.

An enthusiastic advocate of soil conservation through terracing and other approved methods has turned poet and given the following timely warning and splendid advice in rhyme:

Hordes of gullies now remind us
We should build our lands to stay,
And departing, leave behind us,
Fields that have not washed away.
When our boys assume the mortgage
On the land that's had our toil,
They'll not have to ask the question,
Here's the farm, but where's the soil?

O. L. Berry, a Gaines county farmer, kept a strict account and found that the corn he marketed through hogs brought him $1.70 a bushel. In a feeding demonstration he found that each pound of gain cost him 6.35 cents, on a ration consisting of corn, skim milk and a protein supplement mixture. It required 3.11 pounds of corn, 41 gallons of skim milk and .291 pounds of the protein supplement to make a pound of pork. James Brown, another demonstrator of the same county, reports that he received $1.95 per bushel for his corn by feeding it to hogs. The cost of producing a pound of grain was 5.9 cents. The hogs were fed on corn, supplemented with a mixture made on equal parts of tankage, cotton seed meal and shorts. The feeding was done in self-feeders, which were kept full and easy of access at all times.

Texas' representatives to the National 4-H Club encampment at Washington this year were Herbert Theime, of Harlingen, W. C. Wright, of Lamesa, Millie Novasad, of Brazos county, and Ruth Kemp, of Fisher county. Two boys and two girls are sent to the encampment from each State every year. The joint total profits of these two boys and girls the last three years was more than $4,000.

Marion county farmers who had wide, well-built terraces say they were worth five dollars an acre to them this year in the actual saving of soil and plant life. Many farms that were not terraced were almost ruined by the heavy rains and floods, being filled with deep gullies. Some of the narrow, poorly built terraces washed badly, but the wide, well-built ones held splendidly, considering the unprecedented rains.

There will be a larger crop of fall tomatoes in the Lower Rio Grande Valley this year than usual. The new tariff bill placed an import duty of three cents on tomatoes, and growers say this will make possible a profitable crop to come on the market from the middle of November through January, a season when there will be a heavy demand for tomatoes. Most of the growers saved their own seed from the spring tomatoes, which makes a saving of from $3.50 to $4 a pound.

The Texas Home Demonstration Club women have grown much asparagus and rhubarb this year in an effort to add a greater variety to the average family menu. Especially in Western Texas were these two popular vegetables grown largely. In Hockley county every club woman has grown both varieties of vegetables. In Stephens county alone 16,000 asparagus roots were put out. In the State there are 33,000 women and girl Home Demonstration club members, and all have canned and are canning home-grown fruits and vegetables to assist in providing a balanced and healthy diet for the family.

COTTON MARKETING

We solicit consignments of cotton to be sold on arrival or held for a higher market, and will make advances approximating 75% of the market value of cotton at interest rate of 6% per annum.

The resources and responsibility of this Company and efficiency of our service in the handling, storage and sale of cotton insure proper disposition and greatest possible returns for all cotton intrusted to us.

Any shipments made to us, large or small, will receive the same careful and personal attention that the cotton would receive at the hands of owners.

The United States Department of Agriculture says the Hessian fly is the most destructive insect working at cross purposes with man. The department says the Hessian fly has cost the country as much as one hundred million dollars in a single year.

The use of low-priced wheat as a feed will be fairly general through Central Texas this winter, according to present indications. This practice was not uncommon last season, when wheat sold around $1 per bushel, approximately the same price as corn. Farmers whose supply of corn has been reduced by the drouth may find it economical to use wheat, either their own or that of neighbors, instead of buying corn, the usual feed grain.

Five Shackelford county poultry demonstrators who tried out the plan found that skim milk in the poultry ration reduced the cost of producing eggs nearly five cents a dozen. Feeding skim milk effected quite a saving in the grain ration and resulted in a total feed cost of 7.7 cents per dozen from the flocks, compared with a total feed cost of 12 cents a dozen in other demonstration flocks where no milk was fed. It is said by competent authorities that 100 hens will consume with profit about three gallons of skim milk daily, and when this amount is available the expensive protein feeds in the mash may largely be omitted. One hundred hens to a dairy cow is said to be a good balance to maintain between the dairy and poultry branches of the farm.

This is how Frank Caraway, of the Energy community, Comanche county, found manure paid. Last year he scattered eight loads of manure on three acres of land. The land was seeded to millet this year and Mr. Caraway realized $20 per acre from the land. On adjoining land, on which no manure was spread, the millet was scarcely worth cutting. Nor was this all. This year the land was planted in oats, and on the manured land the production was fully one-third more than on the land on which no manure was spread last year.

While the cotton acreage in Texas was not reduced to the extent it was hoped it would be, nor to the extent that would have served best the interests of the State, there was a reduction in the acreage devoted to the production of the fleecy staple. The latest estimate of the United States Department of Agriculture, which conducted a thorough survey, gives Texas 17,500,000 acres of cotton this year. This is a reduction of 4 per cent from the cotton acreage of last year. The greatest reduction of cotton acreage was in the southern part of the State. There was also a reduction in the southeastern and northeast and central sections of the State, but in these sections the reduction was not as marked as in the southern section. The reductions were not entirely voluntary, either. Continued rains and heavy floods during the planting and chopping seasons were largely responsible for the decreased acreage. An increased acreage was noted in the northwestern and western sections.

For Our BOYS and GIRLS

By AUNT MARY

SEPTEMBER THOUGHTS

Well, dear little readers, most of you are about to start a new school year. How happy you should be! Just think, you are going to see all your little friends again, besides some new friends. Isn't it wonderful? And your dear teacher will be there to greet you—maybe, with a new book or two; think of all the new things there are to learn between the front and back pages—interesting fields of knowledge will be opened to you—unknown wonderlands of beauty and greatness. Should we not all be happy and thankful for our Lord's mercy; His goodness; the great country that we live in and the kind and loving parents who guide our foot-steps in the paths of honor and right living?

SUNSHINE FOR SHUT-INS CLUB NEWS

This has been a hot and trying summer. For those well in body and spirit it was hard enough, but for the poor unfortunates chained with illness to a bed or chair, it was even worse. Beds hot and uncomfortable—oh, the long hot days, the restless long nights, have seemed like a thousand years to some poor sufferers. Whatever sunshine you may have sent this summer has given double pleasure and you are doubly blessed. If you have neglected your duty, then resolve to take up the work now with renewed energy and make up for lost time. If you are not a member of our little club and would like to join and help bring happiness and pleasure to the less fortunate, here is the way you can do it.

First fill out the membership coupon printed here, and mail at once to Aunt Mary, Box 1012, Fort Worth, Texas.

MEMBERSHIP COUPON

I want to be a member of the SUNSHINE FOR SHUT-INS CLUBS.

Perhaps you do not know about our little club and the great work it is doing. The club is free to all readers of this newspaper—young or old. There are no dues, fees or assessments of any kind.

After you have sent in your membership coupon, we send you a membership card with your letter division in the upper right hand corner, which shows the group you belong to.

Each month on this page is printed the names and addresses of the Shut-In members; before each member are the letters of the person to whom he or she is to send sunshine for that particular month.

If you want to bring happiness and joy into the world, join our little club and do your part; not only will you enrich their lives but your own as well.

Here are a few letters of interest and some new members that we wish to welcome:

There is a letter of thanks from a Shut-In, Iris Flatt, Canton, Texas, who writes: "I received several nice letters from boys and girls and was glad to get them. I enjoy being a member of the Sunshine Club, for I dearly love to read. I thank every one for writing to me."

The following sweet letter was received from Thetys Keeling, Minden, Texas: "I'm proud to say that I'm a member of this club. I feel like it will lead us to a better life of helping others to be happy. Mable Brown's poem, 'Life,' was appealing; I enjoyed it. I am strong and healthy and can enjoy the sunshine and out-door pleasures. I'd like very much to bring happiness into the lives of some poor Shut-In."

There are several other members we wish to welcome into the club, as follows: Olive Ruth Dorsey, Box 354, Quanah, Texas; Ruth Miller, 618 N. Spurgeon, Altus, Okla.; Nola Cook, Lane City, Texas; Betty Marie Richards, Box 14, Ralls, Texas; Charlie Marie Moore, 1918 Avenue K, Lubbock, Texas. We hope they will become very active members and that we also can bring sunshine into their lives.

If you are a Shut-In, or know some one that is a Shut-In, send in the "I Am a Shut-In Coupon." If you should send in the name of a Shut-In, please gain their consent to become a member before sending in name with coupon. There is only one rule governing the Shut-Ins and that is, at least once every three months, from the time their name first appears on this page, they must write to this department and let me know whether they are receiving sunshine, giving their correct address. This is so we might keep up with a member as well as the correct address of the Shut-In. Failure to do this will necessitate dropping of Shut-In from the list. Therefore, if some one you know is on the list and wishes to stay there, but is unable to write, please write for him or her and do a double duty to your club. Address Shut-In coupon to: Aunt Mary, Box 1012, Fort Worth, Texas.

Things to Make at Home

There are so many interesting things boys and girls can make at home that are both interesting and instructive. One of the first things a boy wants is a kite. The fun of flying it is much greater if he has made it himself. Here are a few simple instructions that if carefully followed will result in a kite that "will fly."

Electricity, aviation and many other discoveries and inventions are indebted to the kite for their conception of final results.

Of the many and varied kinds of kites the Eddy kite is perhaps the most successful. The specifications are few and if carefully followed the kite is always successful. It requires very little wind, and can be flown in a minimum of space.

Here is the way to proceed: Two strips split from a bamboo fishing pole make the best frame; these should be about the same length and notched at the ends.

Next bend one of the sticks into a bow with an arc, having a radius about one-eighth of its length. Then attach the bow to its exact middle to the other stick at exactly right angles and at a point one-fifth from the end. Turn a string around the frame not too tight, but tied securely at each of the four points. Paste paper loosely on convex side of frame. Lap about one inch of paper over string all around. Paste around edges only. For a kite three feet in length newspaper is about the right weight; for smaller kites thinner paper is better.

Attach belly-band to the upright stick at point one-fourth of length above cross bar and one-fourth of length below. Belly-band should be on convex side of kite. Make small holes through paper to attach. Flying string may be tied to belly-band at point opposite bow, or may be left as loop sliding freely on band.

If properly constructed, this kite should rise directly from the hand of the one holding the string. If it does not, place on ground convex side down and top toward wind. After carrying string ten or fifteen yards to windward, draw in a few yards of string and kite will rise. This kite avoids the necessity of running or having another person hold the kite. By alternately jerking and playing out string kite will readily rise above tree tops and houses and into steady current of air.

Common Difficulties

1. Failure to fly—maybe caused by: frame or paper being too heavy; paper too tight; belly band too high; insufficient wind.

2. Diving—Cross stick too low or not bowed enough; belly-band too low; wind too strong—play out more string.

3. Flying one-sided—Bow longer on one side or bowed more on one side; paper too tight on one side.

STORIES IN VERSE

Here is another one of those lovely poetic gems that tell a wonderful story. It is a very pretty poem of recitation and a great deal of feeling can be put into the reciting:

Old Farmer Gray Gets Photographed

I want you to take a picter o' me and my old woman here,
Jest as we be, if you please, sir—wrinkled,
gray hair, and all;
We never was vain at our best, and we're going on eighty year,
But we've got some boys to be proud of — straight, an' handsome, an' tall.

They are coming home this summer, the nineteenth day of July,
Tom wrote me (Tom's a lawyer in Boston, since forty-eight);
So we're going to try an' surprise 'em, my old wife and I—
Tom, Harry, Zay an' Elisha, an' the two girls, Jennie and Kate.

I guess you've heard of Elisha; he preaches in Middletown.
I'm a Methody, myself, but he's 'Piscopal, he says.
Don't s'pose it makes much difference, only he wears a gown;
An' I couldn't abide (bein' old and set) what I call them womanish ways.

But he's good, for I brought him up; an the others—Harry and Zay—
They're merchants down to the city, and don't forget mother and me.
They'd give us the fat of the land, if we'd only come that way.
An' Jennie an' Kate are hearty off, for they married rich, you see.

That's surely a cur'us thing, sir! Do you screw it into the head?
I've heard o' this photography, an' I reckon it's scary work.
Do you take the picters by lightin'?—La, yes; so the neighbors said:
It's the sun that does it, old woman; 'n he never was known to shirk.

Wall, yes, I'll be readin' the Bible; old woman, what'll you do?
Jest sit on the other side o' me, 'n 1811 take hold o' your hand.
That's the way we counted, mister, if it's all the same to you;
An' that's the way we're goin', please God, to the light o' the better land.

I never could look that thing in the face, if my eyes was good as gold.
'Tain't over? Do say! What, the work is done? Old woman, that beats the Dutch.
Jest think! We've got our picters took; and we nigh eighty year old:
That ain't many couples in our town, of our age, that can say as much.

You see, on the nineteenth of next July our Golden Wedding comes on—
For fifty year in the sun and rain we've pulled at the same old cart;
We've never had any trouble to speak of, only our poor son John
Went wrong, an' I drove him off; 'n it broke the old woman's heart.

There's a drop of bitter in every sweet. And my old woman an' me
Will think of John when the rest come home. Would I forgive him, young sir?
He was only a boy; an' I was a fool for bein' so hard you see:
If I could jist git him atween these arms, I'd stick to him like a burr.

And what's to pay for the sunshine that 's painted my gray old phiz?
Nothin'! That's cur'us! You don't work for the pleasure of working, hey?
Old woman, look here! there's John in that face—I'm blest if the chin isn't his!—
Good God! she knows him—it's our son John, the boy that we drove away.

TEXANS VOTE ON FOUR CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

At the regular election in November of this year Texans will pass on four proposed amendments to the Constitution of their State. Two of the proposed amendments affect the University of Texas and its oil lands, one is aimed at a revision of the term of the Supreme Court, and the fourth at a reorganization of the legislative session.

One of the amendments would permit counties in which University of Texas lands are located to tax said property the same as if it belonged to an individual. The land is now tax free, and the counties have made the complaint that the University is not only sapping its natural resources in the form of gas and oil, but is depriving the county of any tax revenues from the valuable tracts.

Another of the proposed amendments seeks to permit the Board of Regents of the University of Texas to issue bonds to provide funds for the erection of additional buildings on the campus. The bonds, if issued, are to be secured by the $13,000,000 oil and gas royalty fund. Under the present system the University may use only the interest from the fund for new buildings.

Another proposed amendment seeks a reorganization of the legislative session. If adopted, the amendment will lengthen the legislative session from 16 to 120 days and increase the pay of members of the Legislature from $5 to $10 per day.

This amendment provides for separating the legislative terms into periods, 30 days for the introduction of bills, 30 days for the committee hearings and reports, and 60 days to the debate on measures and the enactment of laws. The rule, however, would not be ironclad, either branch having the right to set aside the regular procedure by a four-fifth vote, with the further provision that emergency measures could be taken up at any time.

Another of the four proposed amendments would require the State Supreme Court to remain in session throughout the year, instead of only nine months. The present Constitution requires the Supreme Court to go into vacation from the last Saturday in June to the first Monday in October, regardless of the condition and the number of cases pending.

MANY TEXANS CARRY HEAVY LIFE INSURANCE

According to the Texas Index, a life insurance publication, Texas has a large number of people who carry life insurance in excess of $100,000 and the list is growing larger every year.

In the city of Dallas there is a list of 78 men who carry insurance in excess of $100,000. The total insurance carried by these 78 men is $19,150,924. In Houston there are 53 men who are insured for a total of $12,504,840. In San Antonio there are 24 men whose life insurance policies total $5,666,000, and in Fort Worth there are 23 men who carry $6,646,693 life insurance. El Paso has 18 men who carry more than $100,000 life insurance and Wichita Falls has sixteen. According to population many of the smaller cities make as good a showing.

J. M. West, of Houston, heads the list with a total of $1,543,500 insurance on his life. Edward A. Landreth, of Fort Worth, is second with $1,200,000. Col. E. O. Thompson, of Amarillo, is third with $1,148,000.

RAISING RABBITS AS SIDE LINE

A new industry has sprung up in many East Texas towns, that of raising rabbits. It is said that in a few towns in the eastern section of the State nearly every person is a rabbit raiser, and the rabbits are raised for market.

The rabbits, however, are not the ordinary cotton tail variety, that are a pest and a nuisance in so many places. They are big rabbits, of proud robbeken families, such as New Zealand, Marten and Chinchilla breeds. The rabbits are raised both for their meat and their fur. As high as $40 each was paid for rabbits by breeders.

FIVE GREAT GRANDSONS OF DAVY CROCKETT IN VALLEY

Five great grandsons of the immortal Davy Crockett, hero of the Alamo, reside in the Rio Grande Valley section of Texas. These descendants of the man who gave his life in defense of Texas liberty moved to the lower Rio Grande Valley when development was just beginning in that section, and they still reside there. All are in a way connected with irrigation projects.

The names of these great grandsons of the immortal Davy are, Robert B., Henry, Ed, Ben and Oscar Crockett. Their father also bore the name David Crockett, a namesake of his grandfather. His father was Robert Crockett, a son of Davy.

TEXAS SECOND IN NUMBER OF AIRPORTS

Texas, with 115, stands second in the number of airports and landing fields, according to a survey of the Department of Commerce. California leads the nation with 164 fields.

On July 15, when the survey was completed, Texas stood first in the number of auxiliary fields and army airdomes, having 35 of the first type and 15 of the latter. The State also stood second in the number of municipal airports, with 46.

The nation has 1,667 landing fields of various types.

HOME PROBLEMS.

FALL WORK IN AND ABOUT THE HOME

Here we are again at the beginning of a new housekeeping year—and there are so many things to be done that we scarcely know where to begin. Near the end of a dry hot summer, our energy is about depleted and we do not always like taking up the tasks that should be performed. Let me suggest a short vacation for mother—it is almost a necessity. Were it possible, fall vacations should be taken in preference to summer vacations. This gives us a new lease on life for the long winter work. After a rest and change, we are ready to take up our tasks with renewed energy and increased efficiency.

First in the list of fall work for the farm woman is the garden. As soon as the first beneficial rains fall, the garden should be plowed, harrowed, and "laid off" for the varieties of different things we intend to grow. In fact, some of the nicest gardens I have ever raised were in the fall. String beans are, as a rule, very easily and prolifically grown (select the rapid maturing varieties). Radishes, lettuce, kola rabi, fall cabbage, fall onions and turnips are the usual favorites for the fall garden. If one likes greens, there are two good ones—spinach and mustard. However, do not plant anything that is not generally liked by the family—it is a waste of time and money.

After the garden work is finished, the house and yard will need attention. Cleaning, scrubbing, polishing and refurnishing are some of the tasks awaiting housewife and mother. Shiny windows, fresh crisp curtains, snowy linens, sparkling floors is the dream of a perfect housewife—but, in trying to realize this dream, do not forget to keep intact the home atmosphere. Edgar Guest has written a very lovely poem, entitled "The House Where the Children Play." That is the kind of house we want to provide, a house clean and shining, yet not so "nice" that your family will want to go elsewhere because they are not allowed to "muss it up" a little.

After the windows are washed, fresh curtains hung, floors cleaned and polished, spreads on beds and silver all polished, we should turn our attention to the yard and the outside. Wouldn't it be fine if every home could have a fresh coat of paint this year? How our homes would shine. Paint, as you know, is of inestimable value—it preserves and protects as well as beautifies. Painted houses and painted fences give a home that "well-cared-for" appearance. Has your yard been seeded or sodded to grass? If not—now is a good time to do it. Sodding is a more rapid way of securing a beautiful yard covering. Make arrangements to plant those trees around the house and the orchard in November; plow the land and dig the holes as soon as possible. Set more rose bushes and prepare that rock garden before the freezing weather.

Oh! there are so many tasks—homey tasks—yet sweet and precious ones. Let us all be up and doing before the cold northers shut us in for the winter.

GOOD PIES—A REAL TALENT

We have from time to time talked to you about foods and the proper way to prepare this and that article. We have advised the proper use of food, the proper balancing of meals and the selection of the right kinds of foods for all ages and conditions of life. We would not recommend a dessert for every meal—however much we all like it. We do not feel that it is a wise or a healthful practice. However, we do not believe that good, well-made dessert is particularly harmful, especially in the cool fall days; so, here is the way to make delicious pies:

As the crust of any pie is the basic principle and "success secret," let us give it first consideration. Flour being the principal ingredient, it should be carefully selected and handled. Although the all-purpose flour can be used satisfactorily for pies, yet the soft wheat cake flour makes a more delicate crust with less chance of failure. A hard shortening is more satisfactory than a liquid one, as the final product will be lighter and more flaky. Sift the flour once before measuring. Then take two cups of flour, add ½ teaspoon baking powder, 3/4 teaspoon salt and sift again. Measure 2/3 cup shortening and work into the flour mixture as quickly as possible, until it looks like granular meal. Then work in about six tablespoons of very cold water, or just enough to make the pastry hold together without sticking. Too much water makes a tough crust. Roll out on a floured board until the desired thickness is secured. This resipe makes one nine-inch double crust, or two nine-inch shells or 16 tart shells.

We like "quick shortcake," dubbed the fresh fruit pie that we make in summer. This is made by baking a shell piecrust in a quick oven for ten or twelve minutes and rapidly cooling. We fill this crust with sliced and sweetened fresh fruit (in season) such as strawberries, peaches, etc., and then topping this with whipped cream. We often "put up" some extra delicious peaches for our "winter shortcake" and fill a crust with this fruit and cream. This is quick, easy dessert and most delicious.

The next in line of favorites is the custard fresh fruit pie. We bake the crust as for the fresh fruit pie and after it is cooked and cooled we pour enough thick custard to half fill crust, then add a layer of fresh crushed fruit and top with sweetened whipped cream. Some times we fill a pastry shell or individual tart shells with ice cream, topping with fruit or whipped cream.

The above suggestions are hot weather pies and they are simply delicious as well as convenient in that you can make them and keep them in a tight bread box three or four days before using. We like to crisp the crust when we have kept it for some time.

Now for the winter pies. There are so many nice ones that we do not know where to begin. However, since blackberry pie is easy to make, and most Southern housewives have a canned supply on hand, we will try that first. Make your crust pastry and roll half of it to 1/8 inch thickness, having ½ inch overhanging the pie plate. Moisten the edge of the pastry with cold water and fold inward, even with the edge of the plate. Moisten the edge again. Fill the pieplate with the berry mixture. Then lay the rest of the pastry that has been rolled to 1/8 inch thickness with several incisions made in the center to allow the escape of steam. Trim off the surplus pastry around the edges of the plate and then press the edges together with a fork dipped in flour. Bake in a hot oven for twenty minutes, then reduce the heat and let bake about 20 minutes more.

Blackberry pie filling is made in the following way: Take three cups of fresh cleaned blackberries or three cups of drained canned berries; three tablespoons flour and one cup of sugar; mix thoroughly. Use in the manner suggested.

For blueberry pie combine four cups of berries, one cup sugar, a speck of salt and four tablespoons flour. Proceed the same as with blackberry pie.

Deep dish rhubarb pie is a most delicious surprise and healthful, too. Wash three pounds of rhubarb and cut into ½ inch pieces; there should be about eight cup fulls. Combine with ¼ cup water and three cups sugar and simmer slowly ten minutes. Add ½ cup flour and one cup sugar, mix thoroughly and turn into a greased baking dish. Dot with three tablespoon of butter and cover with pastry rolled to ⅜-inch thickness. Press the pastry down well around the edges and cut several slits in the center to allow steam to escape. Bake in a very hot oven for ten minutes, then reduce heat and continue baking for thirty minutes.

GOOD RECIPES

There are so many delightful ways to please the eye and tickle the palate that it is almost unbelievable that so few of us try to go beyond the daily "meat and potatoes." If we once acquire the habit of serving surprise dishes it is remarkable how easy it really is.

Spanish Whipped Cream Dessert

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1¾ cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon cocoa, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¾ cup milk.

Cream shortening; add sugar and yolk of eggs, well beaten; sift together flour, baking powder, cocoa and cinnamon and add alternately with milk; fold in beaten whites of eggs. Bake in two greased layer tins in moderate oven 35 to 40 minutes. Put together with following cocoa whipped cream:

Four tablespoons cocoa, 1/3 cup powdered sugar, ½ teaspoon extract, 1 cup cream.

Mix the cocoa and sugar with a little hot water until well blended. Add vanilla and cream and whip until stiff enough to spread.

Fluffy Fruit Sauce

One-half cup corn starch, 2 egg whites, ¼ cup orange or pineapple juice, grape or loganberry juice.

Beat the egg whites stiff and whip in the syrup and fruit juices. Serve at once. This excellent instead of whipped cream.

Baked Liver With Vegetables

Two pounds of liver, 1 large onion, sliced, 1 tablespoon shortening, 1 cup stewed tomatoes, ⅓ cup hot water, 3 slices of bacon, 12 small potatoes, ¼ cup flour, 2 cups celery, diced, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper.

Heat the shortening in a pan that has a tight cover. Add to this the onion and the celery. Cook slightly. Dredge the liver, which should not be sliced, with a little of the flour and lay in the pan. Arrange the bacon over the top, add the hot water and the salt, and bake, in a moderate oven for one-half hour. Then put in the potatoes, pared and halved. Recover and bake until the potatoes are done; remove lid and brown the bacon. Dish the meat and vegetables, add to the liquid in the pan the rest of the flour, stir until smooth, and add the tomatoes. Season with the pepper and more salt if necessary. Serve the sauce in a separate pan.

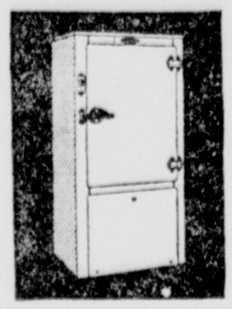

Sally Lunn

One-fourth cup cornstarch, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 7/8 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup syrup, 2 eggs, ¼ cup shortening.

Sift the dry ingredients and stir in the milk, eggs, syrup and shortening. Beat until bubbly, pour into a good-sized shallow pan well greased, bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Cut in squares and serve hot. If sugar is mixed with cinnamon and nutmeg and sprinkled over the top before baking it gives a holiday effect.

Pampa Woman Killed in Car Wreck Friday

Mrs. G. C. Kesterson, 30, of Pampa was killed instantly about 6:00 o'clock Friday afternoon when a car in which she was riding overturned several miles west of Canyon. In the car with Mrs. Kesterson were her two children, Leon 10, and Bobby Lee 5, and Mrs. H. A. Steiner, also of Pampa, enroute to Clovis, New Mexico, for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. Steiner received several minor injuries and the two Kesterson children were badly bruised.

The body was brought to the Griggs-Thompson Funeral home to await funeral arrangements. The body was shipped to Quinton, Oklahoma, Saturday night for burial.

It is thought that the wreck which killed Mrs. Kesterson and injured the others, was caused by either a tire blowing out or a spindle breaking and the car plunged into the ditch. Husbands of both ladies are employees of Midwest Exploration company at Pampa.

Mrs. Kesterson is survived by her husband, two children, her parents, and one sister.

Rooms for Boys in Garages Needed is Plea Heard in City

The Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce have started a movement to fix up rooms for boys who want cheap rooms for light housekeeping quarters. Rooms over or in garages, which may be cheaply converted into living quarters, are in great demand among the boys who wish places to do light house keeping.

Travis Shaw, representing the Rotary Club, and L. N. George, representing the Chamber of Commerce, urge that those who have places which may be rented to boys to call them.

It is stated that scores of boys would come to college this year, if cheap quarters may be secured, will be forced to stay at home, or go elsewhere if such rooms are not provided.

Co-operation of the citizens of Canyon is urged.

C of C Seeks the Passage of Milk Ordinance Here

The Chamber of Commerce thru a committee, has launched a drive for the enactment of a milk ordinance for the city. The committee has placed the plan before the City Commission and has asked that they pass an ordinance regarding the retail milk dealers for Canyon as a protective measure to the health of the Canyon citizens.

It is pointed out that the new ordinance, if passed, will protect the buyers of milk in Canyon against any epidemic which might spread through milk distributors here. So far as it can be learned all the dairymen of Canyon are favoring such an ordinance.

Those who handle the milk will be required to have health certificates and cleanliness in every respect will be required of the dairies distributing milk in retail quantities over the city.

The milk ordinance, it is pointed out, will work a hardship on no one person and is intended only as a protective measure in the health of those who purchase milk from dairies. The ordinance will affect only those who sell to retail customers, and will not include those who sell cream to the various stations in town.

Much comment has been made at various times by people coming here for college and finding that Canyon has no ordinance regarding the handling of milk.

L. N. George, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce states that the committee hopes to see the passage of such an ordinance soon.

LEGISLATOR VISITS COLLEGE

Sam A. Bryant of Memphis, state representative-elect, visited the College Saturday. Mr. Bryant was shown over the plant by President J. A. Hill. He served three terms in the legislature several years ago, and was greatly interested in visiting the College and discussing the needs of the school with Mr. Hill.

C. L. Thompson was a business caller in Lubbock Monday.

Petition Presented to City Asking for a New Water Main

A petition has been presented to the City Commission asking for a water main to start from the city plant, run east to 15th Street, and then cross under the Santa Fe to connect with the main line down town. It is pointed out that the new line would materially reduce the fire rate of the city, as there is only one water line running from the plant to the down section, and this is under the high school building, which was erected a few years ago, across a street.

The City Commission has asked City Secretary Harvey Cash to get up an estimate of the cost of the additional line, and to ascertain the saving which might be made in insurance rates should the line be run. No action will be taken on the petition until the figures have been ascertained.

No official statement has been made regarding the new line, but it is stated that a bond issue would probably be necessary in order to do this work. The city will have enough money to complete the present paving projects, but will be forced to complete the work of widening the highway through town under an agreement of several months ago when the state and county agreed to do the paving if the city would widen the highway, put in curb and gutter and gravel on the outside of the concrete. This will add considerable to the cost of the city's upkeep during the coming year.

Canyon Eagles Are Ready for Opening Game

Tomorrow marks the opening of the football season for Canyon grid fans, when the Canyon High School Eagles, model 1930, with Coach Edgar Brady, at the helm, meet the Happy High School Happy Jacks in the first tussle of the year.

Under the direction of the two coaches the Eagles have been training since August 25 and are in good condition for the game tomorrow. Stiff workouts with heavy scrimmage has been on the bill of fare for the Eagles this week.

The game with Happy promises to be a good one and should hold the interest of the football fans of Canyon. Happy has been working out for several weeks and according to reports from there the Happy Jacks are ready for the game.

Classes at the high school will be dismissed at 3:30. The game is scheduled to be called at 3:40 at Buffalo Stadium.

The accident occurred when a tire on a rear wheel blew out and the car swayed into the ditch and overturned several times. Chunn who was driving, received several cuts and bruises about the body and a severe injury on the skull. The others were only slightly injured. The car was almost completely demolished.

Chunn's wife and other relatives arrived here Monday morning shortly after he had been carried to a hospital in Amarillo.

DAIRYMEN MEET TUESDAY

The monthly meeting of the Randall County Dairymen's association was held Tuesday evening. Regular routine of business was transacted. Three prominent dairy specialists were scheduled to the body but did not arrive until the meeting had adjourned.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS SHOW INCREASE IN ENROLLMENT

COMING YEAR PRESENTS A PLEASING OUTLOOK.

Carruth Praises Faculty for 1930-31 Session; Total Enrollment Near 700 Mark.

An increased enrollment over last year marked the opening of the Canyon public schools Monday morning, when the 1930-31 school term began.

By Tuesday all departments of the school system were moving along in splendid order and the prospects for a successful school year were very pleasing, Superintendent Irby Carruth stated.

"I believe that we have one of the best, if not the best school faculty, that Canyon has ever had," he said in way of comment on the faculty for the coming year.

The new state law lowering the age limit for children entering school from the age of seven to six has increased the enrollment considerably, Mr. Carruth stated.

A total of 235 students had been enrolled in the high school and 462 had been enrolled in the grade school Tuesday, making a total of 697 in both the high school and the grades.

Upchurch Getting County Exhibit in Shape for the Fair

W. H. Upchurch, county agent, stated yesterday that the exhibit from Randall county for the Tri-State Fair was rapidly taking form, and would be moved to Amarillo to place on the fair ground by the end of next week.

Mr. Upchurch stated that he needed very badly several things for the exhibit; gallon samples of beans and peas, and pumpkins, were among those he hoped to locate before going to Amarillo.

Mr. Upchurch stated that he did not known about his plans for another fair except the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo. His exhibit has always stood first or second, and if the showing will not be representative of the county's production, he may not go to Dallas this year.

Any farmer who has good products which might help Mr. Upchurch in the county exhibit are urged to notify him.

W. T. Graduate Victim of Heart Attack Tuesday

Miss Opal Coley, 20, a graduate of the 1930 class of West Texas State Teachers College, died on a Fort Worth & Denver passenger train between Wichita Falls and Memphis, Tuesday, apparently a victim of heart failure.

Miss Coley was en route to Childress her home and when she failed to get off at the station a search was made for her. She was located in a wash room, the door of which had to be forced, shortly after the train left Estelline for Memphis.

Miss Coley was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Coley. Her father is an employee of the Fort Worth & Denver at Childress.

She was graduated from the College in May with a bachelor of science degree and had been elected as a tearcher in the schools at Marfa, Texas. Her parents state that she had left home Sunday for Marfa to take up her duties as teacher.

While a student here she was very popular on the campus and her literary work had gained much favor for her. She majored in history and did outstanding work as a member of the Prairie staff.

Besides her parents she is survived by four brothers and one sister, Ray of Little Rock, Ark., Curtis, of Los Angeles, A. J., Tyrol and Marion, of Childress.

Dr. Barnett to Take Up Work in Peabody College

Dr. Albert Barnett and his family left Wednesday morning for Nashville, Tennessee, where Dr. Barnett will take up his three months of work as Professor of Agricultural Education in George Peabody College for Teachers.

Dr. Barnett's opportunity to do this work is a great commendation of the Education department of the Teachers College here. He is substituting for Dr. Kary Carmus Davis, and will be advisor of students who are working toward their Masters and Doctor's degrees in the field of Agricultural Education.

Dr. Davis is the author of "Productive Farming," "School and Home Gardening," "Horticulture for High Schools," "How to Teach Agriculture" and other books. Dr. Barnett is listed in the Peabody Bulletin with the same rank as that held by Dr. Davis.

SEVENTY MEN ANSWER CALL OF BUFF COACHES

LARGE GROUP OF CANDIDATES BOOM TEAM PROSPECTS.

Much Promising Material for 1930 Team Now Working Out at Buffalo Camp.

Sore muscles, bruises, sprains, aches, pains, and such like are being ironed out at Buffalo Stadium this week as the squad of seventy prospective West Texas grid men continue to undergo rigid training for the 1930 season. The Buffalo stock took a good rise this week when the seventy prospects for the Buff team lined up for work. As the material for which the 1930 team will be constructed, settled down to serious work it became evident to the railbirds and football prognosticators that the man who earns a letter at West Texas this year will earn it by hard work.

A businesslike air prevails at the Buffalo camp and as the boys get down to work in real seriousness the prospects for the Buffaloes are growing more promising all the time. The long list of men, who far exceeded the fond hopes of the coaches, so far as numbers are concerned, have long since depleted the large supply of football toggery. At this early stage it is impossible to pick the most likely men for the line or backfield. Out of the large number working out at least forty-five of them are possible first string men.

It looks as though good blockers are most desired than ball carriers. At any rate it seems certain that a man must know how to block, and then must block if he is to be one of Claude Reeds first string men this year.

In the first few work outs this week Coach Burton has been handling the centers and backs, while Reeds has had the line in charge. As the work progresses they plan to alternate. Last year Reeds worked with the backs and Burton worked with the line.

Both coaches are highly pleased with the prospects and the manner in which they are shaping themselves into action. Also the seriousness with which the candidates are going about their work is cheering the Buff mentors considerably.

When the 1930 machine swings into action September 26 against the Oklahoma Central Teachers, at Buffalo Stadium, Coaches Reeds and Burton hope to give the Panhandle grid fans something of high order in football. The strong Central Teachers team is the first set up for the Buffaloes and promise to furnish plenty of competition. The game will be the first game under the new bright lights at Buffalo Stadium and should draw a record crowd as an opener.

Rotary Club Hears Talk on Real Estate by Berl Elliston

Berl Elliston gave a classification talk Tuesday at the luncheon of the Rotary Club on the real estate business. Mr. Elliston pointed out in particular the need of a law to compel the registration of all those engaged in real estate business in the interest of protecting the buying public. Real estate sharks are condemned by the legitimate operator, who is as essential to the growth of any community as any other line of business, stated Mr. Elliston.

Rev. Wes Kunze discussed the subject, pointing out instances when reputable real estate men had been forced to expose the operation of unreliable ones.

Guests present Tuesday were: Rev. and Mrs. G. J. Irwin, Allen Early, O. R. Allen and E. W. Little of Amarillo, and H. E. Hargin of Austin.

The executive committee of the Club recommended that the citizens of Canyon start a movement to fix up rooms for boys in their garages, which could be used for light house keeping quarters. T. C. Thompson states that he has one room over his garage which he has given to boys for several years in exchange for labor on his lawn. He had twenty-three applications for this room this fall. Mr. Kunze stated that the people of Canyon were not taking as much interest in fixing up rooms for boys to batch as other school towns are.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Ricker of El Reno, Okla., spent Tuesday in the home of their niece, Mrs. Dan K. Usery.

CHANGING THE CONSTITUTION

The voters of Texas will be called upon to pass upon four constitutional amendments in the November general election. Three of the amendments should be passed without question, and the other has great merit and will pass if the voters understand the amendment.

One amendment gives counties in West Texas the right to tax University lands for local purposes at the same rate as paid by local citizens. The university owns many thousands of acres of land in West Texas which is not taxed for local purposes, and which cripple the county governments of these counties. The legislature appropriates money every year to pay local taxes on the 88,000 acres of penitentiary owned land. There is no reason why West Texas counties should not receive the same treatment from the university property.

Another amendment would give the regents of the University of Texas freedom to invest the millions of oil money being received for the permanent building fund. At present the regents may invest only in bonds of the state and of the United States. In view of the fact that the state has no outstanding bonds, this limits the investment only to U. S. bonds. Prices fluctuate in the bond market. This amendment would allow the regents to invest in school, county and municipal bonds. These securities are of the highest class. It would also tend to keep Texas money in Texas.

The third amendment would keep the Supreme Court open the year around. Under the present constitution the court is forced to take a three months vacation. The court is several years behind with its work. If an important case comes up during the summer, there is no chance for court action until October. It is ridiculous to think that the court of highest authority in the state is not open to the people all of the year. This amendment would cost the state no additional taxes.

The fourth amendment calls for re-organization of the legislature so far as payment of the members and length of sessions are concerned. The amendment calls for a session of 120 days, instead of 60 days. No legislature has been able in recent years to get its business transacted in 60 days. Called sessions are very expensive. Under the new amendment, the pay for members would be increased to $10 per day, but the mileage would be cut in two. For a member living as far away from Austin as most of those in West Texas, the amendment would mean an actual reduction in pay, on account of the fact that time is always allowed between the regular and special sessions, thereby calling for the payment of mileage at least twice. Twenty cents per mile to Austin and return means considerable money for each member. The 120 day session would keep the legislature at the job with only one mileage bill at half the present rate, and would act toward a much more efficient session. It is very costly to assemble the legislature and get started. It kills practically a week's time, with little accomplished.

A movement has started to reduce by law the number of members of the House of Representatives. This should have been included in the amendment, and it would have carried if this provision had been made. At any rate an effort will be made along this line in connection with the new re-districting bill, and if accomplished it will mean much more efficiency in the House.

A number of West Texas counties are asking President Hoover for drouth relief. All they get is sympathy, and a black eye for years to come. The drouth all over the United States is the worst in sixty years. It is unfortunate, coming on top of the collapse of the Hoover prosperity - gambling boom, but every community will have to work out its own problem.

The Tri-State Fair will be held in Amarillo Sept. 22-27. Make your plans to attend the exhibition.

TALKING BACK TO A COP

A New Yorker named Major Charles P. Shinn has just done something that ought to endear him to motorists all over the country. He talked back to a traffic cop—and got away with it.

Major Shinn, returning to his native city after a month's vacation, unwittingly drove down a street from which traffic had been barred. A policeman stopped him. Major Shinn protested that he did not know the street was restricted, and asserted that there were no detour signs at its entrance. The cop thereupon remarked:

"Go on. You knew that sign was there. You've been driving this way every day for a month."

Major Shinn promptly called the cop a liar, and landed in court as a result. The heartening part is that the judge promptly exonerated him.

This won't have much effect on the ordinary abusive traffic cop. Still, it is a comfort to know that one of these loud-mouthed autocrats can be pulled up on a short check-rein once in a while, anyhow.

Today's definition: A pedestrian is a married man who owns an automobile.

Miniature golf course owners will say, of course, that they have grounds for their racket.

THEY'LL CUT BOTH WAYS

By Bruce Catton

National air shows like the one held at Chicago provide material for both the optimist and the pessimist.

They lift up the optimist by demonstrating how mankind has conquered the air and by indicating a new method of escape, a new form of recreation more thrilling and uplifting than anything ever developed before.

At the same time they put another crease in the pessimist's brow by reminding him that these marvelous machines are after all largely designed for purposes of destruction. Those army planes that swoop along in such inspiring style—given the proper conditions they could be apparations more dreadful than the pale horseman that St. John saw from Patmos.

So it is that an air show of this kind gives you mixed emotions. You can see in it the incarnation of a race set free, or you can see in it a glittering new weapon with which humanity one day will blow its brains out. You're right, either way. The airplane, like most of the rest of our inventions, can cut both ways.

Indeed, it often seems as if that knack of inventing two-edged tools is the outstanding characteristic of the present age.

We devise marvelous machines, only to find out that we have, thereby, given ourselves enormous responsibilities. These intricate devices of ours may yet make it possible for us to lift ourselves by our own bootstraps; similarly, they may bring us to a point where we shall proceed to exterminate ourselves, calling back the Dark Ages for all the earth with all the unsuspecting innocence of an infant playing with a fulminate of mercury torpedo.

All of which, perhaps, is just a sign that we are a little bit more clever than is altogether good for us. One side of mankind's brain has developed amazingly. People can fly through the air, send their voices around the world and enlist mechanical slaves to do their drudgery; but one is permitted to wonder just how much good this is all going to do us if we do not have the intelligence to use these new devices properly.

At any rate, the combination of things ought to make the current era exciting. For better or for worse, we are going somewhere at a rapid clip. It may be that we are headed for an order of society, a way of life, more magnificent, free and inspiring than anything that was ever dreamed of before; on the other hand we may be about to engage in self-destruction on a stupendous scale.

That is the cross-roads to which this age of inventions is bringing us. We are traveling fast. It depends on our collective common sense whether we shall go up or down.

"One kiss," says a poet, "is worth a dozen wise-cracks. Given at the wrong time, however, a kiss is likely to bring that many cracks.

THE MOTHER'S RETURN

By Helen Welshimer

The Gold Star mothers are coming home again.

They are leaving the slim green graves across the sea, where red poppies blow in the careless breeze, and small white crosses keep lonely vigil.

They are watching the coast of France blur into a blue-gray haze, as the low hills disappear, and the fishing boats with their colored sails, grown mellow from many winds and rains, slip back into the harbor.

Some of the mothers stand on the deck until the cool wet winds have blown the darkness everywhere and a light or two is shining far, far back where a boat or two goes home.

They have not said goodby to warriors, though they have kept their tryst as soldiers' mothers. They have made their long farewells to the little boys they used to know. Tousleheaded, freckle-faced youngsters who licked the frosting bowl, banged the door, and liked bread and butter and jelly.

Sons do not grow up to their mothers. They are always little boys with a cut that needs bandaging or a baseball that has been ripped and must be mended. Because of this it has made it all the harder for the Gold Star mothers to leave the graves behind.

It has been hard for them to visualize long lines of marching men, steel helmets glistening in the sun, swinging down the grave white roads of France, chaunting of a maid in Armentieres, whisteling to keep up their courage. They are still a little afraid of those khaki clad men who stood for the war that took their boys away.

Not many of the women who made their pilgrimages to the cemeteries together knew one another before the journey started. Yet there was a strange understanding among them. Their memories were so much alike. Their suffering had blown from the same hot fields of battle. The starlight that filtered through the trees, across the graves, brought the same benediction.

The sound of taps changed to lullaby strains, from long ago, to all of them.

So they are coming back again, these mothers whom our government so generously and graciously sent to visit the graves of their soldier sons. They are coming back realizing that their individual sorrows are only part of the community of suffering which all must share. They will not feel so lonely now, because they know the mothers of the boys who sleep in the graves that are scattered here and there.

The cemeteries will not be strange places in Flanders, for they will know that other boys, just like their boys, sleep quietly around as summer slips into autumn and winter comes again.

They have learned, too, that bereavement is a world-wide word. The sympathy and understanding of people who speak a foreign tongue has needed no interpreter to assist in its expression.

So, with a pressed poppy from a Flanders grave, and another box of memories stored away with their treasures, the Gold Star mothers are coming home.

A DANGEROUS TIME

A potential menace that grows with the long, hot, dry season is fire. Nature, in fields and forests, has provided conditions favorable to the beginning and spreading of fire. The grass turned sere and yellow, the dried-out fallen branches of trees, piles of cuttings here and there and dead timber still standing, await only a spark to make a raging furnace. Even in cities and towns the fire menace has been increased through prolonged drouth and great heat. As a rule fires are easily prevented. All that is required is a bit of forethought. In the woods and along the roadsides the effort called for is no greater than being careful when starting or leaving fires and in discarding burning matches. In the homes and on premises, no waste should be permitted to accumulate. It must be remembered that nearly all fires are preventable and that there must be some act of carelessness or thoughtlessness before they can originate. The greatest danger is in times like the present, after burning suns and cloudless skies have dried many things to a point of inflammability.

Flounces Give Fullness to New Furs

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

THE STRAIGHT LINE COAT GIVES WAY TO ONE WITH SLIGHT FITTING THROUGH THE BODY—HUDSON SEAL STILL A BEST BET, HARRIET SAYS

BY HARRIET

BUYING new furs for old this winter will tax the selective powers of all women. There are so many diversified styles and lovely skins to choose from.

The main thing about new fur coats is their rather classic beauty. If a woman can have several, she can well afford to have her second or her third bizarre cut and trim. But since one is the usual quota, it is better to look at the more conservative coats.

Most of these have a slight fitting through the body. The straight-line coat, short and boxy, is no longer good. There may, it is true, be slight body fitting. But there are two new treatments that allow plenty of fullness at the lower edge. These are flounces and pleats. The flounces may be in the form of flounce depth godets. And the pleated flares may also be set in godets. Both are new and correct.

A second point to watch is the bloused bodice part on the coat. This style is very good for older women. Usually there is a belt where the blouse ends, usually at normal waistline or slightly above. Boleros are good, the back bolero or the cape effect being ultra stylish.

Mink is still the classic fur. This season mink coats are luxurious in the manner in which they collar and cuff themselves. Sleeves are as interesting as the cut of the body of most coats. Puffs, flaring cuffs, even mousquetaire sleeves are quite in order.

DYED squirrel is excellent this year, the new vanilla shade the most popular. Caracul, broadtail, shavel lamb and lapin coats are usually made in more varied styles than the mink, the seal or the chinchilla would be.

One of the safest and most stylish coats of the season is a Hudson seal, made with a bolero and banded with a black satin sash. It is essentially the correct coat for an older woman. It has dignity, beauty and grace. The sleeves are narrow, ending in a belted cuff, and the collar is one of the new military ones. If one tires of the sash, a narrow belt is just as chic. It might be of color, to match a hat or gown.

A flared flounce distinguishes a brown squirrel coat, in the Lelong vanilla tone. It has its skins used horizontally, in slightly curving line, so that the flounce gives the impression of a most natural wave below the hipline. This coat fits rather snugly through the body, has plain cuffs and a cushion collar that uses the fur vertically.

Typical of the newest styles in furs this season is the dyed squirrel coat, left, in rich brown tone. A flared flounce is its distinguishing feature. Excellent for older women is the bolero coat of Hudson seal, right, with black satin ash. A band of seal faces the white felt turban.

LAS SENORAS NUEVAS MEET WITH MRS. WOODS

Mrs. Harry Woods was hostess to the members of the Las Senoras Nuevas club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Asters, verbenas and dahlias were observed throughout the entertaining rooms. Bridge was the favored diversion and four tables were placed for the guests.

AGAIN KONJOLA SHOWS WHAT IT CAN ACCOMPLISH

Prominent San Antonio Man Eager In His Praise of New Medicine.

MR. CHARLES OLIPHANT

"I am glad to endorse Konjola to any who suffer as I did," said Mr. Charles Oliphant, well-known San Antonio railroad man, 423 Lamar street, San Antonio. "About a year ago I suffered a breaking out on my skin. Little patches of pimples appeared and were called water-blisters. They itched and burned severely, and though I tried many remedies I gained only temporary relief. From Konjola, I gained what I consider miraculous results. The breaking out disappeared with three weeks after I began taking Konjola. I had kidney trouble but now the pains in my back and the swelling under my eyes have disappeared also. I feel better in every way and have gained weight. I think Konjola is a very fine medicine."

—and the little boy who watched the flying sparks years ago, is now running a drawed-up golf course on the corner lot across the street.

And speaking of golf reminds me that one of the most amusing sights to be seen around this office is to watch L. F. Sheffy attempt to challenge our boss for a game of golf.

By the way, I noticed where one of the readers of the Amarillo News-Globe, who lives in the Randall county part of Amarillo, wanted to know why the Amarillo papers didn't publish the Randall county returns of the run-off primary.

Now if that same reader had been a subscriber to the Canyon News they would have received the desired information in the next issue of this grand old sheet. Also if that same person had been present at the News' election party on the night of August 23 they would have known the outcome of the county races by 8:30 o'clock and at the same time had a knowledge of how the governor's race was running along or rather how Ma wasn't running.

Now I don't know what other people think about it and maybe I'm wrong, but I don't feel any too good about it. I am one among those who favored the election of Mr. Moody four years ago instead of another term by the Fergusons. Also I am among the thousands who have long since and upon numerous occasions regretted same. I should have picked someone else. But here's what I am driving at Mr. Moody left his office to stump the state in the run-off primary speaking for Sterling. I said I didn't exactly mean stump the state for he never spoke a time in West Texas. His feeble efforts in the last election aided much in the defeat of Mr. Bobbitt for the office of Attorney General. Now while Moody was attempting to help the Sterling cause along, governor's from the drouth stricken states were working to the better interests of the people they were serving in an attempt to secure Federal aid for drouth relief. As a result Mr. Moody and Texas were left high and dry so far as the Federal government is concerned.

Then last week when the French flyers, who sailed the Atlantic on the first sucecssful east to west flight, hopped over to Dallas to collect the $25,000 Easterwood purse, Governor Moody was too busy to leave his office for a few hours to give the flyers an official greeting from the State of Texas. In the words of others, "I'se simply disgusted."

About the same time that America was giving a glorious welcome to the two Frenchmen, France was officially booting an American out of France. Ain't this world a queer place after all.

Over at Shamrock the folks are digging up all kinds of dust in an effort to keep the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus from staging a show there next Sunday. Folks, I am of the opinion that they are about right in their protest. This country up here in the Panhandle has been in the white spot of American business for many months, and I am hoping that it will be for many more months to come. Yet, I fear that it will not be if all the circuses and traveling grafters keep making this section. They will carry out thousands of dollars that will never return to this section and only tend to drain on the resources of the country. In the hard times, such as the entire nation is suffering just at present, circuses and traveling shows have little place in the Panhandle, according to the way I see it.

It is true that people must have some entertainment more or less, but I believe that such entertainment and amusement can be found closer home. The circus has an attraction for both the old and young, the rich and poor and the circus men know it. With that fact in mind they hunt the best spots where the picking is good.

Hud Prichard went chicken hunting in the north Panhandle last week, but it might have been a wild goose chase for all the good it done. Hud didn't have any luck, so to speak. The shooting he did was at birds "too far away" and consequently he didn't bring home any fowl.

P. S. My confidential weather man tells me that we will have a break in the droth by the 21st of this month. If it don't rain before that time you may as well drive the chickens home out of the rain.

Wayside Items

Rev. J. A. Lindley of Tulia, began his pastorate of the Baptist church here last Sunday, gave us two good sermons, noon and night. All welcome him in our midst. We bespeak for him good congregations.

Miss Katheryn Patterson left Saturday for Gentry, Ark., to attend school. Her father, John Patterson, accompanied her to Amarillo. She will be with her sister, Mrs. J. C. Gulledge. Best wishes to you Pat.

W. I. Lane and wife have been called to Pampa, to little granddaughter, Jerry Lane Hancock. We anxiously await tidings from the sick bed.

A goodly number of patrons and friends assembled at the school house Monday morning, the 8th, at the beginning of school. Hal Hartrick as principal, Mrs. Hartrick, as primary teacher and Miss Douglas as intermediate teacher. Thirty-eight pupils were enrolled the first day. W. C. McGehee as trustee has led in doing and having done much improvement in interior of the building. Still lacks some of being completed. Teachers and patrons are anxious for co-operation and to have best school possible. Some pupils have left for other schools, a number of new ones moved in, quite a few beginners. Gratifying to see the number of large boys in line at the opening.

Good rains are falling in different locations. Late crops of feed stuff are promising, early crops too far gone for rain to help.

Mrs. Ella Gillham has moved to Canyon for benefit of school.

Irving Lane has entered school at Canyon.

Marvin Derr and W. I. Lane returned Sunday from a week's trip to New Mexico visiting with J. M. McGehee.

Improvements of the Tri-State Fair Amount to $35,000

Nearly $35,000 has been spent within the past year for new buildings and improvements at the Tri-State Fair Grounds, President Wilbur . Hawk of the Fair Association, said yesterday. Of this amount, $5,600 was used to put 40-foot extensions on both cattle buildings and the swine building, two of the many Fair departments which plan to be bigger and better than ever this fall.

When visitors to the Fair enter the grounds the opening day, Sept. 22, they will notice that all of the buildings are resplendent in new coats of white paint. They will see too that all of the interiors have been changed and improved, several hundred dollars being spent for this work alone.

Largest single item of expenditure, of course, is the recently completed $25,000 automobile building, erected by Potter county officials.

Ernie Young's famous "Spanish Nights Revue," Leonard Stroud's thrilling rodeo and the Beckman & Gerety company's "world's best" attractions head the long list of amusements to be offered by the Fair during the big week of Sept. 22 to 27.

This week the Fort Worth and Denver, Santa Fe and Rock Island railroads all announced special reduced rates during Fair week. Some of these rates are as low as one and one-fifth the regular fare for a round trip.

From a humble beginning as "just another fair," the great Tri-State exposition, under Mr. Hawk's capable direction has grown until it is second—and a close second at that—only to the State Fair of Texas. Every official, every department head and everyone connected in any way with the Fair promises that the 1930 event will surpass any previous Tri-State Fair.

REAL PROFITS AHEAD

Although the commercial air transport companies are still, for the most part, operating "in the red," that is no sign that they will not ultimately make a great deal of money.

An article by Earl Reeves in the current issue of World's Work points out that any new form of transportation has to operate at a loss at the beginning. The railroads in this country, he says, started in 1828, but they were a full quarter of a century old before they were making profits.

Aviation probably will not have to wait that long. Last year the commercial transport lines carried 150,000 passengers on regular schedules. Some lines already are making money; and as new economies come into use there is little doubt that the aerial passenger plane will prove a real money maker.

KNOW TEXAS

Texas citrus industry, little more than a decade old, now represents an investment of $100,000,000. Shipments in 1931-32 are expected to total 12,000 to 15,000 cars.

Texas tax values for 1930 are $4,280,498,578, increase of over $70,000,000 for the year. Real values are more than $12,500,000,000, increase of $2,649,000,000 in the past eight years or more than $300,000,000 a year.

Texas is second among the states in number of airports with 115. Ohio and Pennsylvania with 85 each tie for third place.

Faculty

perience, and President Hill and Dr. R. P. Jarrett consider the College very fortunate in having secured his services.

A vacancy in the training school caused by the resignation of Mrs. Dorothy Jim Brokaw, has been filled by the election of Mr. Arthur K. Goodman, who received his M. A. degree from the Colorado State Teachers College this summer. Mr. Goodman has had special training in intermediate grade critic work and in research. Mr. Goodman and his family will arrive in Canyon for the first faculty meeting.

Mr. W. C. White, who was a member of the summer school faculty will return in December for work in the department of Geography. He will substitute for nine months for Miss Darthula Walker, who will be a member of the faculty of the Floating University for that period.

Miss Bessie C. Engle returns to the geography department this fall having completed the work for her masters degree at the University of Chicago during the summer.

A change was necessitated in the department of art by the resignation of Rudolph Fuchs, who has become a member of the faculty at the North Texas State Teachers College at Denton. Miss Sara Miltia Hill has been elected to this position and her acceptance has been received. She and Miss Isabel Robinson are expected to arrive in Canyon next Wednesday.

Mr. Fremont Mead comes to the English department from the Univerity of Texas where for the past two years he has been a member of the faculty, at the same time working toward his doctorate. He will take the place of Miss Margaret Wiley, who has been granted a year's leave of absence.

Two other interesting changes have been made in the department of music. Miss Margaret Justice of the music department of Texas Woman's College, becomes head of the department of violin, taking the work of Mr. Herschel Coffee, who is absent for further study. The work of Mrs. Mae Slack Coffee, teacher of piano, will be in the hands of Miss Alice Dawes, a graduate of the music department of the College, and formerly teacher of music in the Canyon public schools.

A large number of members of the faculty are returning this fall after completing additional graduate work.

Miss Mary E. Hudspeth, head of the department of Spanish, followed her year of study at the University of Madrid with a year at Peabody College where she received her M. A. degree.

Miss Ruby Barksdale of the Physical Education department also received her masters degree from Peabody this summer. Registrar D. A. Shirley has returned from the University of Michigan where he was granted the masters degree. Miss Ruth Lowes and Miss Jean Moore both of the demonstration school, have received their M. A. degrees from the Columbia University and Texas Christian University, respectively. Mrs. Laura Sanders of the demonstration school completed her work for the bachelor's degree this summer.

Mitchel Jones returns to the department of Physical Education for men with his masters degree from the University of Oregon. Miss Bessie Engle received her masters degree in the field of geography at the University of Chicago. Mrs. T. V. Reeves, director of the Bureau of Public Service, has returned from the Colodado State Teachers College at Greeley where she was granted her masters degree.

The College is rapidly completing arrangements under which vocational Home Economics will be given much greater attention than in the past. To this end, Miss Correla Nuzum, M. A., of the Iowa State College at Ames, has been employed as instructor of Home Economics in the demonstration high school. Miss Nuzum has had seven years experience as the head of a home economics department, and comes very highly recommended by the public school officials of New Market, Iowa, where she has taught for six years.

Miss Cleo D. Homes will return to her work in the Home Economics department this fall following a summer spent touring Europe.

Miss Mary Morgan Brown, head of the speech department, and Mr. L. A. Osgood of the English department and Miss Mary Moss Richardson of the English department will return after a three months absence spent in European travel.

Miss Thelma Brummett, secretary to President J. A. Hill, has been granted a leave of absence for study at Columbia University. Miss Inez Allen, who received her degree with the class of 1930 and who has been employed in the office of Dean R. P. Jarrett for the last two years will become President Hill's secretary.

Miss Pauline Brigham, head of the piano department, has been granted a year's leave of absence to study in the University of Oregon. She will work on her masters degree and continue with special work in piano.

With the opening date only a week away, President Hill feels that conditions are very favorable for a successful year. He is especially pleased that so much advanced study has been accomplished by members of his faculty during the past year, and that the places made vacant by leaves of absence which have been granted have been filled by persons of such unusually high qualifications.

MRS. MARY MILLER VISITED GRAVE OF SON IN FRANCE

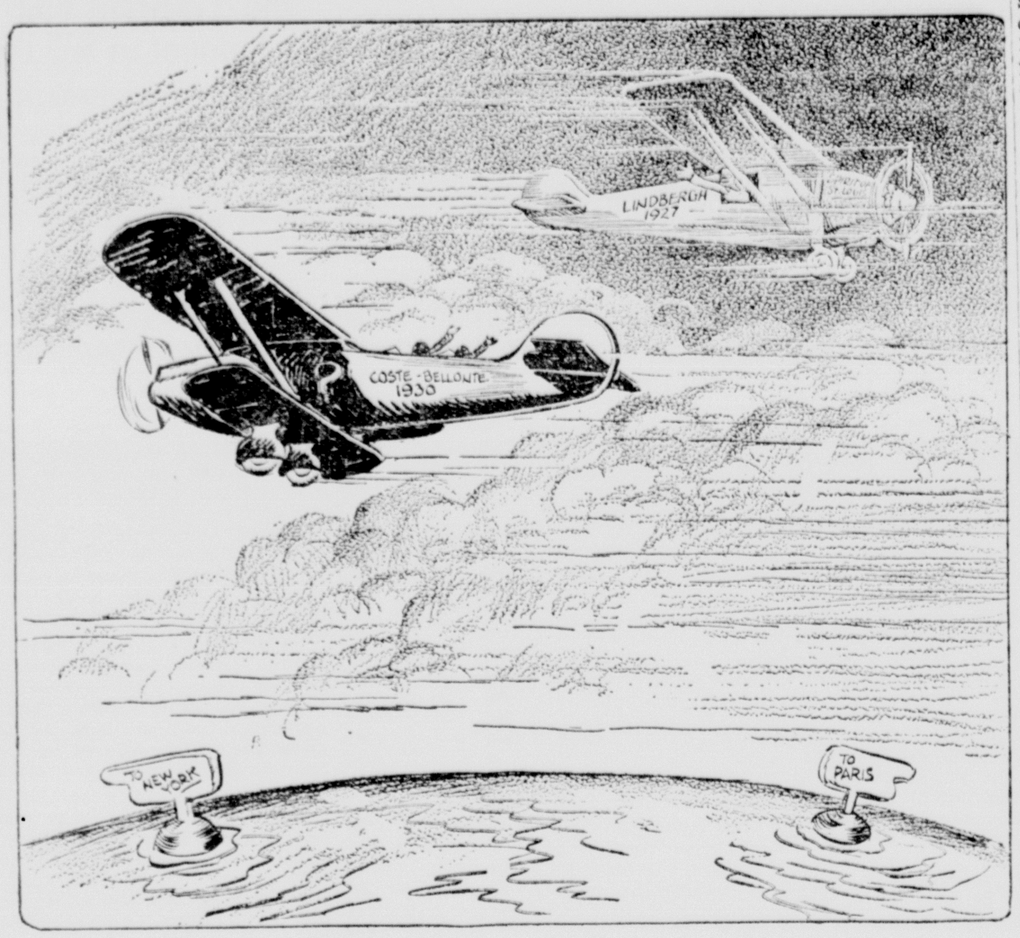

Mrs. Mary Miller of Hutto, has returned from France where she visited the grave of her son, Lawrence H. Miller, who was killed in action during the World War.

Mrs. Miller is the mother of Mrs. C. N. Harrison of this city, and is well known in the city.

Mrs. Miller was with a large number of Texas Gold Star mothers on the trip to France. She writes Mrs. Harrison that the U. S. Government did everything possible to make the trip easy and comfortable for the mothers. A week was spent at the hostess house at the large American cemetery, and a few days in sightseeing in Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Robbins and son, Ray, visited in Amarillo Saturday.

Changes Made

Pavement is under construction upon both the east and west sides of the campus; it is thought that this will be completed before people begin to arrive for the fall session. Eight hundred feet of sidewalks are being put in on the campus.

An additional well and well house are being added to the campus equipment, and the new well will make possible much more water than has obtained in the past.

The Administration Building is being caulked; it is believed that this will make the building much easier to heat this winter. More radiation is being installed in the rooms on the north side.

A new type heating apparatus is being installed in the men's gymnasium; this is a fan system using hot air off steam coils. It is believed that this will render the gym thoroughly comfortable at all times and assure even temperature in all parts of the building during the winter basketball season.

A small care-takers cottage is being erected on the college golf course.

The college plant will be in excellent condition for the opening of the session, according to President Hill.

THIEVES STRIP CARS

Thieves evidently take J. W. Shanklin as an easy mark when it comes to getting automobile tires. For the second time within the past few weeks burglars have made a raid, taking tires from his car. On Tuesday night a spare tire was stolen from the car as it was parked in front of the Shanklin home. The spare tire, a wheel and other accessories were stolen form the car.

Monday night thieves removed the complete windshield, taking the mirror and wiper, from the Ford car belonging to John Schramm as it was parked in front of his home.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the people of Canyon for their sympathy and the acts of kindness they rendered during our sorrow at the tragic passing of Mrs. G. C. Kesterson. May God's blessings rest upon you and the sorrow that has been ours never come your way.

G. C. Kesterson and relatives.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of thanking our friends and neighbors for their kindness during our hour of sorrow; for the beautiful floral offerings; for every deed and act to help lessen our sorrow. May God's richest blessings rest upon you.

BLEEDING GUMS HEALED
The sight of sore gums is sickening. Reliable dentists often report the successful use of LETO'S PYORRHEA REMEDY on their very worst cases. If you will get a bottle and use as directed druggists will return money if it fails. City Pharmacy. 2

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION
A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."
But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.
Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. City Pharmacy.
